British Government Meets With First Defeat

Motion of Government Concerning Aid to For-

VOTE FORESHADOWS
ANOTHER COALITION

Bonar Law's Ministry Not Expected to Resign, Although Situation Is Regarded as Most Serious.

London, April 10.—Bonar Law's tory government has been handed its first definite rebuke in the house of commons since the downfall of David Lloyd George's coalition ministry.

Two liberal parties—Asquithians and Georgians—and the labor party united Tuesday night and defeated a motion of the government, concerning aid to former soldiers, by a vote of 145 to 138.

Call for Resignation.

"Resign!" cried members of the labor party when it was announced that the vote had gone against the government. There were loud labors as several laborites waved papers. The chamber was greatly excited.

The defeat of the government arose from a complicated parliamentary situation. The government had gone on record as favoring relief for soldiers who had been dismissed from the civil service.

Conservatives count all suggestion that the government may be forced to resign. It was pointed out that the defeat of the tories was due to the fact that many of the government's adherents were absent because it was not expected that there would be a division in the house.

It is probable that the permission of the speaker will be obtained to reintroduce the government's motion, which, the conservatives are certain,
will be passed.

(FACSIMILES)THE ENTERTAINMENT LAST NIGHT.

The Kimball House Aband—With Beauty.

A Magnificent Banquet.

Nearly One Thousand Persons Around the Tables.

Rarely has there been gathered in this city such an assemblage of intelligence, grace and beauty as filled the pavilion, corridors and arcade of the Kimball House last night. It was one of the grandest entertainments in history of the distinguished body of medical men now with us. The night was beautiful, starlight and moonlight bathing sky and earth with their soft radiance, and a gentle, but delightful breeze fanning fair cheeks and rousing the hair of the lovely retained windows. We think it was perhaps as large an assemblage as ever gathered on a similar occasion. The entertainment was of the highest order. The only confusion apparent resulted from the simultaneous entry at the table of some parties for the banquet, but even this was soon dispersed by the ability and promptness of those in charge.

OPPONENT CALLED
"VILLAGE DONKEY"
BY LADY ASTOR

London, April 10.—Lady Astor, American-born member of parliament, caused an uproar in the house of commons Tuesday when she called one of the opponents of her bill, which would prohibit the sale of intoxicants to miners, a "village donkey."

She also rebuked J. H. Thomas, a member of the labor party, who was recently one of the guests at her house.
Lady Astor later withdrew the remark.

The amendment to the proposed law, which would allow miners to purchase beer and cider, was defeated.

PRESIDENT PLANS

tant impressions Washington has got since the return of Harding and his within the limits of his temperment, for the proposal that America join the international court, and that he will authorize the members of his cabinet and his friends to go as far as they like in pressing it on the country.

Sympathy Asked
For "Persecuted" Russian PeopleGrand Duke Alexander Issues Appeal for Moral Support of America.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Paris, April 10.—Grand Duke Alexander, of Russia, on the eve of the opening in Moscow of the trial of Archbishop Tikhon today issued a signed message "to the people of the United States of America" appealing for moral support for the persecuted Russian people.

The message reads:
"In the name of God and Christ,
I appeal to the souls of all my spiritual sisters and brothers. Awake, if you believe in God and Christ, or only in God. Under your eyes, in my country, Russia, 150,000,000 souls like yours, who have the same divine father in God, are suffering agony in their struggle for all that is holiest of holy for us and for their faith."

"The tyranny of government which is inspired and led by the forces of all that is evil, ugly and hateful has declared desperate open war against God and Christ. Hundreds of thousands of children are being brought up in pure atheism and hate and are encouraged to live in evil, in ugliness and in immorality. Think of the whole generations which are being prepared to person humanity."

"To go on living, failing to remark this terrible calamity, is impossible. You must also give moral support to my countrymen who still are true to God and Christ—who prefer death to the betrayal of their Father and Saviour. I cry aloud that the duty of every Christian on earth is to help morally my persecuted people."

(Signed:)

"GRAND DUKE ALEXANDER, of Russia."

BOARD ANNOUNCES
BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL
CONTRACT AWARDS

Southern Ferro Concrete,

ker and Farrell Are Suc-

SCHOOL IS TO COST
$461,000 ON CONTRACTS

Bond Commission Meets
Today to Review School Board's Action—Work to Start Next Week.

Contracts for erection of the Senior High School for Boys on the north side, involving approximately $461,000, were awarded by the board of education Tuesday afternoon, bids of the following local concerns being accepted: Southern Ferro Concrete company, general concrete work; Jennings-Gresham company, heating; Walker Electric & Plumbing company, plumbing.

Announcement was made by Commissioner W. L. McCalley, Jr., chairman of the finance and building committee of the board, that actual work on the new high school plant would probably begin early next week after the bond commission and city council concur in the award of the contracts.
The bond commission is scheduled to hold a special meeting this afternoon for the purpose of approving the contracts, while council is expected to take similar action at its regular session next Monday.

Ask County's Help.

At the same session, the board upon motion of Commissioner McCalley, voted to request the county commission to undertake excavation of the Rosalia site, on the south side, upon which the Senior High School for Girls is to be erected. In the event the county agrees to this request, work will begin simultaneously on the two senior high schools, it was stated, as plans for the girls' high school have been completed and await only approval of the board and letting of contracts.

The financial sheet of the school department shows that approximately $448,729.24 is now available for erection of the girls' senior high school.
This amount includes funds which will be expended on excavation work in the event the county refuses to do it.

Anxious for Both.

"I want it to go in the records," declared Commissioner McCalley,
"that I am just as anxious for us to get started on the Senior High School for Girls as on the Senior High School for Boys. I am confident that everything will be in readiness for this work to begin on both schools within the next two weeks at the most."

The board unanimously voted to request the bond commission to offer for sale immediately the remaining batch of school bonds. It was shown that the bond market is now favorable and that perhaps a higher price could now be obtained for the bonds than later in the year.

END TO LYNCHING
URGED BY WOMENMrs. F. F. Stephens Made Leader of Methodist Missionary Council, Succeeding Miss Bennett.

Mobile, Ala., April 10.—A resolution calling upon the people of all southern states and upon the pulpit and the press to unite in an effort to stamp out lynching was adopted by the woman's missionary council of the Methodist church institution here late this afternoon. The adoption of the resolution followed an earnest address by Dr. W. W. Alexander, of Atlanta, chairman of the Methodist committee on inter-racial co-operation.

The resolution was offered, it was stated, in view of the fact that the anti-lynching bill had failed to pass in the last congress.

Mrs. F. F. Stephens, of Columbus, Mo., who has been serving as acting president of the council since the death of Miss Belle H. Bennett, several months ago, was elected president of the council at its session here today.

Published reports of the plane wedding came to the attention of the first Mrs. Philen, it is said. Immediately she communicated with the bride's father, and an investigation was begun by the solicitor's office.

Philen married the woman claiming to be his first wife in South Carolina in 1921 and lived with her for four months and five days, it is alleged.

The wedding of Philen was to have taken place in the air, but contrary winds made it unsafe for the plane to leave the ground on the day set for the marriage, and Philen and Miss Wells were united as they stood in the plane at Candler field. The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Charles L. Bass, chaplain of the Southern railway.

Philen had known Miss Wells for only a short time, it is said. He was for a while engaged in stunt flying at Candler field. The bride is widely known as a singer.

An abrupt ending to Atlanta's "airplane romance" in the arrest of Aviator W. D. Philen at Evansville, Ind., was disclosed Tuesday when the flyer was indicted by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of bigamy.

It is alleged that at the time of his spectacular marriage in an airplane to Miss Annie Mae Wells, of East Point, he had a wife, Mrs. Maud Armon Philen, living in Lexington, Ky.
L. L. Wells, father of the bride, reported to Solicitor Boykin's office Tuesday that Philen had been arrested in Evansville, where he had taken his bride on an aerial honeymoon.

State Department Ex-

Against Patriarch.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, April 10.—The American government again has made manifest its deep resentment and abhor-rence of the political methods of Lenine and Trotsky.

As an avowed protest against the execution of the prelate, Butchkavitch, put to death because he opposed the revolutionary doctrines of the soviet,
the state department has withdrawn
the authorization under which Ekaterina Kalina, wife of the Russian president, had planned to visit the United States.

In announcing their action today, department officials left no doubt of their aversion to any further thought of admitting to American hospitality an emissary even indirectly connected with the soviet regime. They took the position that even the ostensibly humanitarian purpose of her visit would not counteract the feeling of repugnance against her because of the execution of the "icar general."

"The department of state," said the tersely-worded announcement,
"has cancelled the authorization for a visit for Madame Kalina, wife of the president of the so-called soviet republic of Russia. The presence of Madame Kalina in this country is rendered wholly undesirable by the deep feeling which has been aroused by the execution of Vicar-General Butchkavitch. The action of the department is taken especially in protest against this execution."

Even before the death sentence of the prelate was carried into effect many protests against the admission of the Russian president's wife had reached the state department, organizations who have opposed dissemination of soviet doctrines in this country predicting that she would make political capital of her proposed trip in the interest of Russian relief.

Administration officials here could find no legal barrier to her entry, however, and the American consuls at Riga and Reval were instructed to visa her passports.

Protests Have Increased.
Since the execution, which was carried out over the objection of most of the civilized world and disregard of an earnest request from the United States for a respite, these protests have greatly increased in volume. Supplementing the "short statement" filed out at the department officials said the action taken would be a response to these protests as well as a protest

ANGORA ACTION ENDS
SCRAMBLE OF NATIONS

Washington, April 10.—A syndicate of American business men has been authorized by the Angora government to rebuild the whole Turkish empire, introducing modern fireproof office buildings, electric trolley cars, white enamel bathtubs and other luxuries of western civilization in a land which lives just about as it did at the time of the Crusaders. The entire country will be Americanized on the twentieth century model.

Upward of $1,000,000 in American made supplies, automobiles, railroad equipment, farm implements, and electrical apparatus will be shipped to that ancient land, where women, until a short time ago, lived in harems and where farmers still scratch their land with a pointed stick.

This is the real significance of the Chester concession just approved by the Turkish national assembly at Angora. It marks the end of a long international scramble which started under President Roosevelt in 1908.
Wars, intrigues, international conferences, treaties, all have played their part in the long fight, which has finally given these rich rights to the group of American business men headed by Rear Admiral Colby M.
Chester, retired, General George W.
Goethals, builder of the Panama cannel, Kermit Roosevelt, and others.
The Standard Oil interest, which had sought the same concession, were crowded out when the Turks learned they had agreed to share their rights with British interests.

Testimonial of Confidence.
Turkey's action is a testimonial to her confidence in the disinterestedness of the United States. British, French and Italian business men, backed by their governments, have fought hard for the concessions but they were turned away because the Turks saw

LONG-DISTANCE
DANCE CONTEST
"FOLLY" IS HIT

London, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—England is aroused over its own "folly" in starting long-distance dancing contests.

"More mad dancing" is the headline carried over a cabled report of a New York girl's feat in setting a 30-hour non-stop record, while the Sunderland magistrates have emphatically refused to permit any more dance endurance tests.

"It is an idiotic idea, verging on lunacy," said the mayor, "and the magistrates will not deviate a hair's breadth from the regular licensed hours."

The young Ashington couple who started competitions with a seven-hour record, announced February 19, have been left far behind by dancers in other parts of England and elsewhere.

GERMANY IS READY

Cuno Makes Statement in Reichstag While Funeral Services for Krupp Dead
Are Held in Essen.

Berlin, April 10.—Germany, in mourning, pleads for peace. As thirteen Germans, who were killed in Essen when the French tried to com-mandeer automobiles at the Krupp plant were buried, Chancellor Cuno arose in the reichstag Tuesday and declared:

"Even now, at the grave, we are ready for negotiation."
This is the first time, since the French occupation of the Ruhr, that Cuno, or any other member of the government, has stated that a peace conference was possible unless the French first evacuate the Ruhr.

Following the reichstag session,
Herr Stresemann, leader of the folks party, called a secret session of his adherents and it was learned that Stresemann stated that evidently there had been a change within the cabinet concerning the Ruhr policy.

There are many who believe that Germany is about to make a definite reparation offer to the allies. Baron von Rosenberg, the German foreign minister, will soon make a speech, it is understood, in the reichstag, outlining Germany's conception of a solution of the reparations question.

Mild Tones Used.
It is significant that Cuno, who hitherto frowned upon any peace negotiations unless the French first withdrew from the Ruhr, talked in the mildest tone in the reichstag.

Some surprise was expressed because of his readiness to negotiate inasmuch as it was known that he grizzled old "Johnnie Reb" edged his way into the ornate lobby of the St.

self in an upholstered chair and bea chicken drumstick he had taken one paid him the least attention, for it was a typical incident of the day.

Confederate veterans, thousands of them, from all parts of the country,

Case Is Reviewed.

A complete review of the telephone company rate case, which was finally concluded last summer, is contained in the order, which recites that final decision was withheld until records of the company's complete operations for 1922 under existing rates could be obtained and thoroughly analyzed.

Due to the fact that the company's report covering these operations for 1922 were not available until March 1, of this year, the commission, since that time has devoted itself to a complete study and analysis of these reports covering the period to December 31, 1922. "Consequently," the order states, "the commission is now convinced that considerable reduction in the aggregate should be made."

Having come to this conclusion,
the commission, through its order, has undertaken to spread total reduction over all exchanges in the state.
In this connection the order states:
"While the commission is unable,
at this time, to justify further reductions, yet the reductions here provided applied to the business done by the company in 1922 result in the aggregate of a saving of $320,235.28."

A considerable larger aggregate reduction appears in the Atlanta district, the order reveals, due to the fact that Atlanta business of the company is larger and greatly exceeds any other exchange business in the state. This is true also in regard to distribution of facilities, which is larger than in any other community in the state.

Complete Text.
The complete text of the commission's review of its findings and its recommendations, after a long-drawn-out hearing, and many happenings greatly delaying a final conclusion of the commission of testimony, arguments, etc. When finally concluded, in the summer of 1922, the commission, after considerable study of the record, made covering the operations of said company, within the state of Georgia, and including December 31, 1921, did not feel justified in making a reduction in the exchange rates of any of the companies, and finally decided to withhold action on the case, one way or the other, until the benefits of the company's operations for the year 1922 could be available. This necessary postponement further consideration of the case until the operating report of said company was available, about March 1, 1923. Since that time, the commission has devoted much time to consideration of the operations of said company, and including December 31, 1922, with the result that it is now convinced that some considerable reduction, in the aggregate, should now be made.

rate treatment, with the result that different exchanges have been placed in different groups and where an exchange has been put in a lower group than in which it has heretofore been placed, it works in such a case, a double reduction in exchange rates for the reasons, to illustrate—where an exchange has been removed from group 3 and placed in group 2, and the rates of both having been reduced, it is seen that a double reduction follows.

More Cuts Not Justified.
While the commission is unable at this time to justify further reductions, yet the reductions here provided applied to the results in the aggregate, a sum of $288,255.28. The reductions thus made, applied to the different groups, are as follows:

Group one $ 2,364.10
Group two 4,123.72
Group three 25,089.20
Group four 6,735.16
Group five 24,611.52
Group six 26,862.84
Group seven (Columbus) 12,808.92
Group eight (Macon) 21,067.44
Group nine (Savannah) 30,745.68
Group ten (Atlanta) 145,845.68

The reductions just enumerated, as above stated, if applied to 1922 business, would have resulted in a reduction for the year 1922. Of course, these reductions as applied under the rates here proposed, May 1, 1923, to May 1, 1924, may vary slightly, up or down, compared to what the reductions would have amounted to if applied to 1922 business.

For the purpose of this case, it will be noted that the questions of the value of said company's property now used in rendering service within the state of Georgia, depreciation, working capital and other elements of consideration, are given in specific sums at this time for the reason that the commission will continue, as heretofore, since the increase was made in the rates of said company, effective March 1.

1921, a study of the operating results and when, in its opinion, the facts may justify further consideration will be given, looking to a proper and equitable revision of rates charged by said company.

The commission will not, at this time, approve the percentage plan of compensation as provided under the contract between the Bell company and the American Telephone and Telegraph company, but for the present will allow a continuation of the present percentage, as provided under said contract. It will be noted, the commission has, after ample opportunity for studying its effect during the past two years, reached the conclusion that proper classification of local exchanges throughout the state, in accordance to the number of stations in each, is the proper method for prescribing equitable rates.

There have been many large additions to the exchanges and toll properties of said company during 1921 and 1922, with the result that many handicaps under which the company was laboring two years ago have now been removed. In March, 1921, there were upwards of six thousand signed applications for service in a reasonably short time after application was made therefor.

As above referred to, there is only one exchange in the state that does not get some reduction. The Albany exchange is the one referred to. At this exchange there has been considerable increase in development since March, 1921, and considerable increase in the number of stations, so much so that it has been decided only to reduce the rates should be put in group 6, which is composed of Albany, Brunswick, Valdosta and Warner.

As was stated when the increases were made, a study of the operating results and when, in its opinion, the facts may justify further consideration will be given, looking to a proper and equitable revision of rates charged by said company.

Captured, Clay Makes His Third Dash to Liberty Escapes From Patrol Wagon In Front of Police Station Tuesday.

J. M. "Buster" Clay was captured Tuesday night after having made a sensational escape from the stockade several days ago, but made a third break to liberty from the police patrol wagon as he was being taken out in front of police station, and escaped, eluding pursuit by a squad of officers, and several pedestrians.

Clay had been arrested on McDaniel street near the "Pittsburg" district by Officers McMichen and Holland.

He first had been sentenced to serve 22 days in the stockade for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, but after serving three days he made his first escape, but was captured, and manacled. Two days later he came into possession of a file or hacksaw in a manner which stockade officials are unable to explain and made his second escape. P. D. Wampler, of 30 West End street, who was serving a 30-day sentence, escaped with him. Wampler was arrested at his home Tuesday night by Detectives A. F. Duncan and Oscar Tyson.

Stockade and police officials stated that Clay, after receiving the 22-day sentence in recorder's court said that he would never serve the sentence.

Recovered Narcotics Returned to Daniel Drug Co. Tuesday

Narcotics valued at approximately $10,000, which since last June have been stored in a vault in the Federal building, were returned Tuesday by federal agents to the John B. Daniel Wholesale Drug company, from which they were stolen.

and cocaine, were the drugs which were carried away in two paper sacks. Soon after the robbery a large amount of the loot was recovered in Clayton county by federal authorities. Instructions were received Monday to return all bottled goods bearing the proper narcotic stamp.

No charges were made by the government in connection with the return, but one man is now serving a sentence on the charge of the burglary, having been convicted in Fulton superior court.

MRS. IRBY C. WALKER GETS COMPENSATION

Court of Appeals Favors Widow of Detective
Dupre Slew.

Another chapter in the famous Peacemaker bandit case of 1921, in which Irby C. Walker, a Pinkerton detective, lost his life at the hands of Frank Dufre, the latter paying the death penalty on the gallows for his act, was closed Tuesday when the state court of appeals awarded $3,000 in full compensation to Mrs. Gladys Walker, widow of the slain detective, from the Pinkerton agency.

The decision of the higher court sustains a decision of Fulton superior court, which upheld the ruling of Chairman Hal M. Stanley, of the compensation board, in awarding the full amount allowed by law to Mrs. Walker. An appeal was made from this decision by the Pinkerton agency on the grounds that the Georgia law does not hold an employer responsible "for the willful act of a third person, directed against an employee because of his employment."

The opinion of the court of appeals, written by Judge Hoscoe Luke, holds that Walker was killed while in the performance of his duty, having been assigned by the detective agency to guard the jewelry store where the homicide occurred. Judge Luke, in the opinion, holds that there was no personal quarrel between Walker and Dufre, who did not know Walker was a detective, and would have slain any one else who attempted to interfere with him, whether he knew him to be a detective or not.

Another ruling by the court of appeals involving the compensation law was handed down Tuesday in the case of Mrs. B. T. Hightower, of Augusta, who sought compensation from the Holey Wagon works of that city, due to the death of her husband at the hands of a negro chauffeur with whom Hightower had quarreled. The higher court sustained the decision of the Fulton superior court, which upheld the compensation board in refusing to award compensation to the widow on the ground that the murder was caused by the negro's personal feeling against Hightower.

Thousands visit Lakewood park on evenings and on Sundays throughout the summer and this season promises to be the greatest ever enjoyed by this popular Atlanta park.

Free moving pictures are offered every night, including Sunday night and among the many forms of amusement are boating, skating on the excellent floor provided by the roller rink, thrilling rides on the many devices of the park and dancing in the pavilion.

Picnic parties are especially invited, tables being provided for their use at all times.

BANK ACCOUNTS OF LAWRENCEVILLE SHERIFF PRODUCED

Officials of the Bank of Lawrenceville, the First National bank and the Bank of Commerce, all of Lawrenceville, appeared Tuesday at the office of George Golding, special intelligence officer for the internal revenue department, with records showing the accounts of Sheriff E. S. Garner, Howard Garner and J. M. Bernard since 1917.

The officials were directed to appear with the specified records by an order issued by Judge Samuel H. Sibbey. They had refused to obey a subpoena to this effect previously issued by Sheriff Garner and Deputies Garner and Bernard have been indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. It is understood that Special Officer Golding requested the records from the banks in order to check the annual income tax returns made by the indicted officials.

Sascha Jacobsen Visits Children At Scottish Home

Sascha Jacobsen, the noted violinist, appearing at the Howard theater this week, after expressing a desire to entertain the crippled children at the Scottish Rite home, was taken to that institution on Tuesday morning, giving these unfortunate the treat of their lives. Mr. Jacobsen played several selections, among them being "The Song of India," "Humoresque," and "Souvenir." The youngsters were so enthusiastic in their applause that they made the request that he also play for those less fortunate, who were confined to their beds. Mr. Jacobsen then made the rounds of several wards and an enjoyable musical was heard by all the children.

Mr. Jacobsen has appeared in all the leading American and Canadian cities. He has been heard in joint recitals with Rosa Ponselle of the Metropolitan Opera company, with "Heavenly Strangers" of the Chicago Opera company and also toured Canada as assisting artist with Mme. Louise Edvina, foremost of Canadian prima donnas and one of the leading artists of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London, the Boston Opera company and the Chicago opera.

Alleged Rum-Runner Jailed After Foot Race With County Officers

Clifford Morris, alleged liquor runner, was jailed Tuesday afternoon by County Officers Cates, Webb and Neel after a chase of nearly a mile.

Morris was observed by the officers in Howell Mill road, who became suspicious of his car. As they approached he "stepped on the gas," according to the police, who then started in pursuit. About to be overtaken, Morris leaped from his machine while it was running and started across a field. One officer guarded the car while two gave chase on foot. Morris fell from exhaustion after running nearly a mile, they claim.

SCAFFOLD'S SLIPPING MAY RESULT IN DEATH

The slipping of a scaffold at the Butler street steam plant of the Georgia Railway and Power company Tuesday afternoon resulted in the serious injury of B. T. Holcombe, a negro, Will Clark, both employees of the power company.

Holcombe, who was rushed to the Atlanta hospital, is probably fatally hurt, in the opinion of surgeons. The negro was carried to Mercy hospital. His condition, while serious, is not necessarily dangerous, doctors stated.

HOME EXHIBITION
ATTENDANCE LARGE

Young Couples Swamp
"Cozy" Love Nest Miniatures at "Own - Your - Home" Show This Week.

In spite of the large attendance on opening night, more than twice as many persons visited the "Own Your Home" exposition at the Auditorium last night, in addition to the hundreds of visitors who viewed the displays throughout the day yesterday, according to records of admissions at the door, and indications were that all previous attendance records for similar affairs in Atlanta would be broken long before the exposition draws to a close Saturday night.

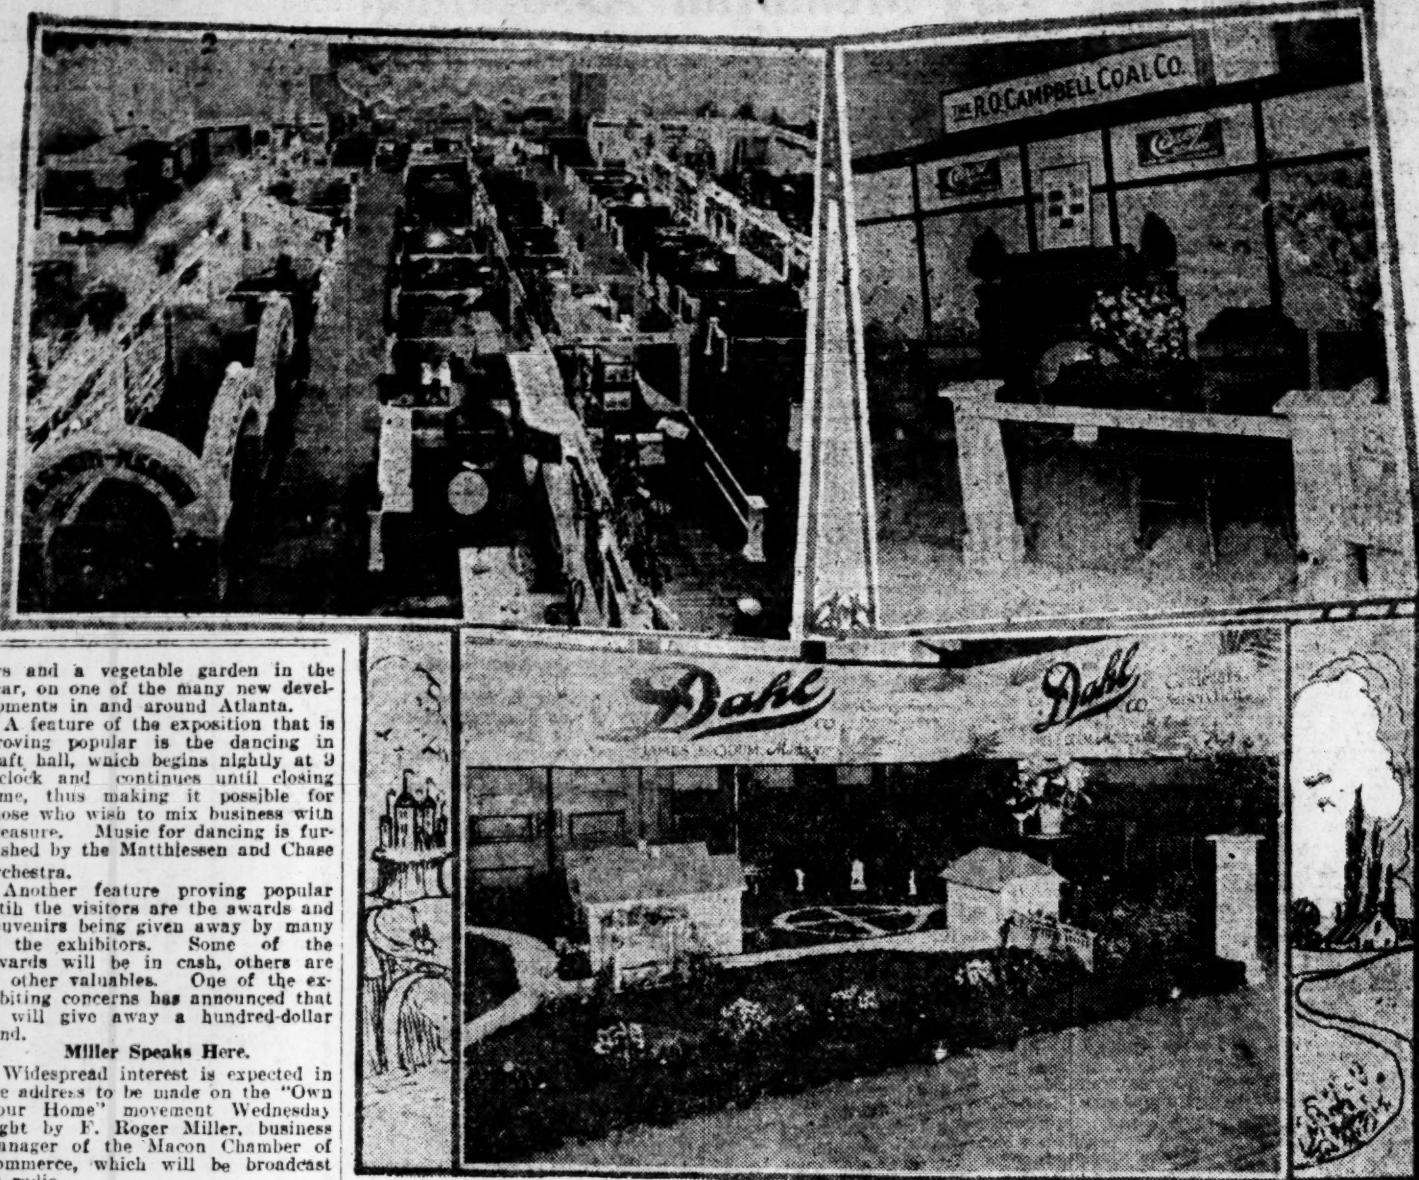

The thousands of visitors arrived on foot, in automobiles and in Georgia Railway and Power company's street cars. There were old ones and young ones, rich and not so rich, but all appeared vitally interested in the "Own Your Home" movement and the many instructive and attractive exhibits at the Auditorium. Home owners went to see the latest in modern conveniences and in finishes, and rent payers went to see for themselves how easy it is to become their own landlords.

Many Young Couples.
One of the notable features of the day was the large number of young couples who visited the exposition, and many of them by their shyness betrayed the fact that their home-making had not yet gone beyond the engagement ring stage, but their interest in the exhibits also indicated unmistakably that the other stages—wedding bells, honeymoon and then a cozy little love nest somewhere—would follow soon in the usual and regular order, and from snatches of conversation gathered here and there not many of them were planning to have any landlords in their scheme of things.

But not by any means was the interest and attendance limited to those about to be wed and those recently wed. Among those who visited the exposition were hundreds who may have embarked upon the seas of matrimony anywhere from six months to 35 or 40 years ago. Some of them may have been planning to sell the little home and build a more imposing one. Others were obviously people who had accumulated nothing nearer a home than a pile of worthless rent receipts and reached the point where they were determined to own their own homes at any sacrifice.

Eyes Light With Hope.
Many appeared care-worn and tired, but their eyes never failed to brighten, as though with renewed hope, at sight of the inviting exhibits and the alluring real estate developments pictured at the many booths. It was as though they could actually visualize their own home, surrounded by a little lawn, with plenty of flowers and a vegetable garden in the rear, on one of the many new developments in and around Atlanta.

A feature of the exposition that is proving popular is the dancing in the ball hall, which begins nightly at 9 o'clock and continues until closing time, thus making it possible for those who wish to mix business with pleasure. Music for dancing is furnished by the Mattheussen and Chase orchestra.

Another feature proving popular with the visitors are the awards and souvenirs being given away by many of the exhibitors. Some of the awards will be in cash, others are of other valuables. One of the exhibiting concerns has announced that it will give away a hundred-dollar bond.

Miller Speaks Here.
Widespread interest is expected in the address to be made on the "Own Your Home" movement Wednesday night by F. Roger Miller, business manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, which will be broadcast by radio.

Mr. Miller is nationally considered one of the leading authorities on the subject, having made similar addresses at "Own Your Home" exhibitions in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, and was especially invited to Atlanta by the Atlanta real estate board to speak on this occasion.

The exposition will continue throughout the remainder of this week, and the doors of the Auditorium will open at 10 o'clock daily, remaining open until 10 at night.

WILL SEEK PROPER CARE OF CRIMINAL INSANE IN GEORGIA

Ray City, Ga., April 10.—An effort is to be made in the next legislature to obtain some provision for the "proper care of the criminal insane" of the state, P. T. Knight, legislator from this county, declares.

Mr. Knight states that "it is a shame on the state of Georgia to have our criminal insane remain at the state penitentiary without expert medical treatment. I introduced at the last session of the legislature a bill requiring that the insane convicts be removed from the state farm to the insane asylum, but I lost in the fight."

Mr. Knight declares that he does not intend to give up the fight until "that measure is passed, or some relief is given to these unfortunate."

The state highway department will continue to be under fire," Mr. Knight believes, "until a sufficient mileage reaches into all the counties of the state."

"I feel that the department is a necessity and serves a good purpose," he declares, however, adding that "like other departments, it may need some readjustments."

Any effort to place a greater tax on gasoline will be opposed by him, he says, reserving the right to change his mind, however.

While he believes a bill will be introduced providing for the removal of the capital, he does not think it will take up much of the legislature's time. An effort will be made to repeal the tax equalization law, he says.

TRAIL BLAZERS GAIN
IN MARCH TO MIAMI

Party Advancing Through Bad Lands One Mile Each Day Despite Hardships.

Tampa, Fla., April 10.—With 30 miles of bad lands ahead of them, the members of the Tamiami Trail blazers' party are approaching toward Miami at the rate of one mile per day, according to word received in Fort Myers last night from three Indian runners, who were taken along by the motorists upon their departure for the east coast.

The message delivered by the runners was the last word received in Fort Myers regarding the plight of the voyagers. The Tampa Tribune's Fort Myers correspondent stated over long distance telephone this afternoon.

The Indian runners stated that the motorists were building bridges constantly and have in prospect 30 days' travel yet.

A party left Fort Myers today for the Everglades to bring back an automobile abandoned by the party when it became disabled. The car is thought to be near Everglades.

The motorists left Fort Myers Wednesday in nine cars, to make their way to Miami over the Tamiami trail. There were 19 men and five women in the party.

TEAL IS ARRAIGNED
IN HOUSTON COURT
FOR HOUSER DEATH

Perry, Ga., April 10.—(Special.)—J. O. Teal was arraigned in superior court this morning for the killing of B. J. Houser, of Grovania, on March 7. He entered a plea of not guilty of murder as charged in the indictment found by the grand jury last week. He is represented by J. W. Bloodworth, of Perry, and John R. Cooper, of Macon.

The jury was obtained this morning about 10 o'clock and the testimony was concluded this afternoon about 4 o'clock and the arguments began. The case will not reach the jury before tomorrow morning as the arguments were not concluded this afternoon.

Solicitor General Charles H. Garrett is assisted by Duncan and Nunn, of Perry, in the prosecution. Teal's plea is that the accident was unavoidable. He ran against J. J. Houser on March 7 with a small automobile that he was driving on the public highway, near Grovania, breaking Houser's leg, arm and neck.

Houser was returning from a field in company with two nieces when the accident occurred. Teal was drunk and was running at a dangerous speed and hit Houser while speeding on the public highway.

Grob is a freak and his status as a boxer never has been set. Levinsky was a second rate. Bogans held Mike to a draw. Tommy Laughran, the young Philadelphia scrapper, also held McGuire to a draw.

"THE ATLANTIAN"
BACKING M'ADOO
FOR PRESIDENCY

Editorial comment favorable to the candidacy of William G. McAdoo, in event he offers for the presidency next year, is made in the April issue of The Atlantian, which was on local newstands Tuesday.

"It is very apparent that Mr. McAdoo must be reckoned with for the presidential nomination," the editorial says. "His strength so far as developed lies chiefly in the west, but he does not lack for friends in the south, having been born and spent his early life in Georgia."

"His ability cannot be denied, and we rather think his spinal column does not lack in rigidity when the occasion demands. At this writing it looks like McAdoo against the field, and leading."

The Atlantian is a monthly publication edited by E. Walter Tripp.

Sascha Jacobsen

Sascha Jacobsen appears entire week at the Howard Theatre

OF Russian parentage and emotional endowments, but musically educated in America, Sascha Jacobsen has astonished the critics of this nation with his playing and definitely set his seal of premiership on the younger generation of talented violinists.

Fervor and repose are at the poles of artistic temperament, but Jacobsen is the master of each. He plays with a beauty of tone, with an authority and with a warmth of feeling that admits him into rivalry with violinists of the greatest reputation.

Go and listen to the playing of this gifted artist. The poetry, the brilliance, the beauty which he draws from the strings of his fiddle will leave you with a longing to listen often to such music. And this pleasure can be yours whenever you wish, for he has made many records of his flashing, burning skill on Columbia Records that are giving constant joy to thousands everywhere.

Go to a Columbia Dealer and ask to hear Jacobsen and his violin. From his many delightful records we suggest these selections:

From the Canebrake. (Gardner)
By the Brook. (De Boissiere)
A-3820
Canzonetta. From "Concerto in D Major," Op. 35. (Tschalkowsky)
Spanish Dance, Op. 21. (Sarasate)
A-6223

Listening, you will again fall under the witchery of his magic, again he will wait you to heights of lofty spiritual repose and then through kaleidoscopic transitions unfold for you visions of incomparable beauty and fiery romance.

Sascha Jacobsen makes records exclusively for Columbia.

WOMEN URGED TO GO TO POLLS

Mrs. Elliott Cheatnam, of Atlanta, Renominated for Regional Director of Third District.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 10.—(By The Associated Press.)—Tonight's session of the fourth annual convention of the National League of Women Voters was featured by the addresses of President Maud Wood Park, of Washington, and Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ellyria, Ohio, woman chairman of the national political convention.

Mrs. Park urged that efforts be made to get a greater representation of voters, particularly women, at the polls in 1924, and that women interest themselves in pending legislation and in law enforcement.

Members of the league, politically inclined, were asking each other whether Mrs. Upton's address was to be interpreted as an invitation for the league as an organization to affiliate with the republican party. She said: "When the league gets a certain distance on its journey it cannot proceed without the help of the majority party."

"Then it gets such help as I, with my position in the political party, and give it and do this because the thing is right itself, and because I trust to the utmost the national officers of the league. I trust Mrs. Park, the noble woman that she is, and she trusts me. Why should not all league women trust the league women, for, after all, the woman's battle is not finished and it will be finished sooner and better if women work harmoniously together."

Nominations presented today indicate that there will be only one contest when national officers are to be elected Friday. Miss Ruth Morgan, of New York, chairman of the international affairs department of the league, and Mrs. Park, of California, have been nominated for third vice president.

Miss Belle Shevlin, of Cleveland, Ohio, and vice president, is unopposed candidate for first vice president to succeed Mrs. Richard Edwards, of Peru, Ind., resigned. Mrs. John Jacobs, of Birmingham, Ala., declared today in an address to the delegates that she is a candidate who has been nominated for second vice president.

Miss Katherine Ludington, of New York, national treasurer, will have no opposition for re-election.

National President Mrs. Park and Secretary Elizabeth Houser, of Cincinnati, Ohio, are hostesses.

Regional directors nominated today include the Third, Mrs. Elliott Cheatnam, Atlanta, Ga., renominated.

Mrs. Chamberlin Speaks.

The Georgia League of Women Voters plan a pilgrimage to the legislature and registration week in which to get all eligible voters registered in their state. Mrs. H. B. Chamberlin, president of the Georgia league, declared today in an address at the national convention of the League of Women Voters here. This program for the year, Mrs. Chamberlin declared, is in addition to the legislative work.

Speaking on the subject, "The State and Its Plan of Work—Should It Originate from the State or the National Pressure," Mrs. Chamberlin said:

"My answer is, from state needs through national suggestion. I do not know how pressure can be exercised and rather object to the word among friends."

"As long as the states differ so in degrees of development, it means a different program for each. At the last convention I was looking over and discussing the printed recommendations of the standing committee with my neighbor. She said, 'We have just this one bill to pass and we come up to their standards. My heart sank for I wondered how many years would go by before Georgia could say that.'"

"In Savannah and Atlanta it cost us money and in Atlanta defeat (Savannah fared a little better) to discover what one of the politicians told me at the pole: 'We ain't got no laws, lady, just customs.'"

"Now our efficiency in government committee is working out improved election laws. Yet there are standards and any expert could have told us long ago that we had just customs."

"Our program for this year includes, besides the legislative work, a registration week and a pilgrimage to the legislature. Neither may be very large this year, but we want them to be annual events. One week to get every one registered, by the use of all the publicity methods we can, will help a great deal."

AMERICAN SYNDICATE TO REBUILD TURKEY

pected that handling over of economic rights to them might lead to political dominations by the outside interests.

The fact that the concession was finally approved just before the reconvening of the Lausanne Near East conference produces serious international complications. It probably will have the effect of uniting Great Britain and France, the excluded nations, against Turkey in her fight to regain the rich Mosul oil region adjoining her present territory. This is now a part of the Kingdom of Iraq, which is under a British mandate. The United States will indirectly be drawn to the side of Turkey in this controversy as about 10 per cent of the Chester concession lies in the Mosul oil region and cannot be utilized until the Turks gain control. It is regarded as a shrewd strategic move by the Turks but one which may cause them much trouble at Lausanne.

To Develop Empire.

The Chester syndicate obligated itself to undertake the development of an empire, a business transaction, probably unparalleled in history. Enough railroads to span the American continent are to be built, to replace the ocean trails of Asia Minor. Ports are to be rebuilt. About 30 copper, iron, gold, silver and antimony mines are to be developed. Rascals and shacks in Ankara are to be torn down and steel-walled skyscrapers built. Streets will be paved. Gas and water mains laid. American type houses and bungalows will be built. Bath tubs and sanitary plumbing will be installed. Telephones will be introduced. Even vacuum cleaners will have a ready sale. Ankara will become a beautiful, clean, political capital—the Washington of Turkey. The same transformation will be worked throughout the land. Modern farm machinery will be distributed.

Oil deposits valued at upwards of $500,000,000 have been acquired but most of these cannot be developed until Turkey obtains Mosul.

Victory After Long Fight.

Admiral Chester wins his great victory after battling for a quarter of a century with European intrigue of the most expert and ruthless type. His story is a romance of modern business. Admiral Chester went to Smyrna many years ago on a delicate mission involving the rights of Americans in Asia Minor. He was so adept at dealing with the Turk that President Roosevelt, in 1908, sent him back on a battleship with a commission to get a foothold there for American business. Germany, Russia, Great Britain and France fought the Americans with every resource.

The world war halted the whole project. With the rise of Mustafa Kemal and the new Turkish government, the American chances brightened for the Turks began to distrust all European powers. All were thought to be scheming to subjugate the rich country politically. Kemal, whose father-in-law was a former member of the New York Stock exchange, trusted the integrity of both the American business man and the American government.

The American government has supported Admiral Chester in his negotiation and may be expected to exact a watchful eye over his operations and over Turkey to advise her should any of her neighbors endanger the integrity of the Turkish government.

Wife's Pleading Saves Husband From Jail Cell

On Probation, Has Another Chance to Fight for Children's Sake.

Sustained by an unflinching faith in the father of her three little children, and exemplifying the unshaken loyalty that has inspired the glowing tributes of the ages to womanhood, Mrs. Joseph North, of Lakewood drive, appeared in recorder's court Tuesday afternoon and, with her hand on her husband's stout arm, pleaded with the judge to give him another chance to fight his unquenchable thirst for liquor.

Officers stated that for the sake of this woman and her children the judge has refused many times to exact the penalty the law provides, and that each time North has broken his promise to the court and to Probation Officer Hollingsworth, and has reappeared on the same old charge, "drunk and disorderly."

But the determination expressed by the man to leave whisky alone, as he knew it was killing him, with his wife standing courageously by his side, once again softened the heart of Judge Johnson, and again North was placed on probation and his case checked until Saturday, when his wife was ordered to appear with $6 for collateral in case he should again break his promise.

and Rosenberg planned to allow the situation to drift another month.

However, Cuno was not altogether conciliatory in his address. "The world," he declared, "cannot doubt where the invasion of the Ruhr lands. The world now knows the abyss to which the occupation is now leading and must realize the firmness of the German decision."

In lauding those who were killed and wounded at the Krupp plant at Essen, Cuno said:

"You bore no guilt other than being Germans. I do not place the blame on the French soldiers but on the rulers on whose consciousness the bloodshed and responsibility falls."

"So far not a single word of regret has come from the official representatives of France."

"You have laid down your lives freely."

BAGGAGE OF STINNES SEARCHED BY FRENCH.

Berlin, April 10.—France has started an offensive against the "high-roller" in the German campaign of passive resistance against the French occupation of the Ruhr.

Four prominent Germans, high in the councils of the government of Chancellor Cuno, were detained by French officials Tuesday and their baggage searched for evidence that they were actively engaged in a plot to defeat the French plan to discontinue the Ruhr occupation.

Those arrested were:

Arrested By French.

Hugo Stinnes, Germany's richest industrialist, who holds extensive interests in the Ruhr. Stinnes was taken from a train at Scharnhorst, through which he was passing with his wife. After his baggage was searched by the French he was allowed to proceed on his way.

Edward Hamm, secretary of the chancellery of the cabinet of Chancellor Cuno, was detained by the French and led off to a jail in Scharnhorst.

Adam Stegerwald, a former premier of Prussia, who has been actively identified with the Cuno government. Stegerwald was released after he was taken from a train at Scharnhorst.

Herr Giesberts, a deputy in the reichstag, who was also allowed to proceed on his journey after his personal belongings were searched at Scharnhorst.

On Way to Essen.

Stinnes and the other three were apparently on their way from Berlin to Essen to attend the funerals of the 13 Krupp workers who were killed by French soldiers during a riot over a week ago. They were detained under the provisions of the French order which makes it illegal for German cabinet ministers to enter the Ruhr.

Germany Tuesday was in mourning for the dead workmen in Essen. A funeral procession 13 kilometers long followed the bodies of the workmen to the cemetery on the outskirts of Essen.

German embassies throughout the world placed their flags at half-staff in honor of the dead.

Will Outline Attitude.

Paris, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Poincare plans to set at rest any doubts there may be regarding the French attitude toward Germany and the reparations question by the address next Sunday at the dedication of a monument to the war dead at Denkirik.

The premier, it was said, semi-officially today, will reiterate the present government's position that the French share in reparations will not be reduced and that the Ruhr will not be evacuated until Germany pays.

650 Germans Expelled.

Coblenz, April 10.—The interallied Rhineland commission, during the first week in April ordered the expulsion of 650 German functionaries from the Rhineland. Most of them were employees of the railroads and the customs department.

American Attitude.

London, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The British government has no indication that the United States government does not share its views that intervention in the Ruhr question at the moment, it was stated by Ronald McNeill, under secretary for foreign affairs, in the house of commons this afternoon.

The statement was in answer to a question whether the British government was in complete accord with American policy regarding the possibility and desirability of intervention.

PETERS' DEATH PROBE BLOCKED ONCE MORE

State Investigators Seeking Cablegrams Sent Asking for Large Loan.

Albany, N. Y., April 10.—State investigation of the alleged slaying of Clarence J. Peters, ex-marine, by Walter S. Ward, millionaire baker's son, was blocked yesterday when Ward's counsel obtained an injunction restraining use of evidence of cablegrams which passed between Ward and his family, received another setback today when the Western Union Telegram company failed to turn over the documents upon vacating of the injunction by the appellate division.

The vacating order, Attorney General Carl Sherman declared tonight, was obtained by the state expressly to permit the use of the cablegrams as evidence. They purported to show, he explained, that Ward, shortly before Peters' body was found near Kenosaw reservoir in Westchester county, sought to negotiate a substantial loan through the Ward Baking company interests.

The cablegrams passed between George S. Ward, father of Walter, who is alleged to have shot Peters, and Ralph Ward, Walter's brother, while the father was in Europe. Testimony given by Ralph Ward a week ago disclosed that the subject of the cables was a request by Walter that the Ward Baking company advance him a loan of between $50,000 and $100,000.

"Welcome Meeting" Held By Memorial Association

New Orleans, April 10.—The Confederate Southern Memorial association, an organization of women, opened its annual convention here today with a "welcome meeting." The convention will continue through Friday.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, of Atlanta, Ga., president, in her annual address, reviewed the birth of the association, "in the very heart of the war, when women of the south with their own hands disinterred the bodies of Confederate soldiers and gave them a decent burial." And how "we old-fashioned women have wreathed flowers, carried flags and beautified the resting places of the veterans ever since."

"Jefferson Davis" was the subject of an address by General Julian S. Carr, commander in chief of the United Confederate veterans. He predicted the monument of the confederacy's president which the association is erecting in Fairview, Ky., will become famous. Colonel W. McDonald Lee, commander in chief of the Sons of Confederate veterans, also spoke.

Mrs. Livingston Rowe Schuyler, president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, an Mrs. Lillita Lever Young, of New Orleans, representing the same organization, were the other speakers.

TO RESUME TRIAL OF KONTZ TODAY

Witnesses on Stand in Manslaughter Trial Discount Density of Fog Blamed for Fatal Crash.

Trial of Thornton (Jack) Kontz on charges of manslaughter, growing out of the death of two electric railway workers from injuries received when struck by his automobile, was recessed at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon until 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. A number of witnesses are yet to be introduced by the prosecution. Solicitor Boskin and Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens are directing the prosecution.

Blames Fog for Crash.
Kontz is contending that owing to the heavy fog he could not distinguish the large grinding machine on the car tracks at Peachtree and Twelfth streets, where the two victims were working, in time to prevent the fatal collision.

Following the accident Kontz was indicted for murder in one bill and for manslaughter in another bill. He is being tried on the manslaughter charge.

Testimony by Call Officer C. T. Maddox that Kontz admitted to him on the night of the tragedy that he probably had been driving 40 miles an hour when the accident occurred, was one of the principal developments Tuesday afternoon.

Officer Maddox testified that after the two victims, W. T. Hunter and W. S. Gorman, had been taken to Grady hospital following the accident, Kontz told at the hospital that he "must have been driving about 40 miles an hour."

The officer also proved a valuable witness to the prosecution when he told the jury that the fog on the night of the accident was not heavy enough to hinder his driving. He said that he and his partner, Officer Tippen, went to the scene of the accident in the emergency police car at a speed estimated at between 45 to 60 miles an hour.

Kontz is represented by Attorneys Lowry and Reuben R. Arnold, E. C. Hill, H. B. Evans, J. W. Bennett and Judge E. C. Kontz, the father of the defendant. Cross-examination of the state's witnesses was conducted by Reuben R. Arnold, Judge W. E. H. Sawyer, Jr., of Griffin, presided.

The defendant occupied a seat between his father and mother. Other relatives and a group of Tech students were present.

Charges 60-Mile Speed.
Basing his estimate on his experience in driving cars, W. J. Henry, foreman of the track grinding crew with which Messrs. Hunter and Gorman were employed, testified as the first witness for the prosecution that young Kontz was driving his machine at a 60-mile an hour pace when it struck the grinding machine and the two men.

Henry said that he first observed the car when it struck a red light 82 feet before it reached the grinding machine. He said that almost before he had had time to take a step the car had crashed into the machine. Kontz brought his machine to a stop about 20 feet from where it had struck the grinding machine, he said, and exclaimed, "See what I've done by driving too fast."

C. E. Newell, civil engineer of the Georgia Railway and Power company, took the stand and identified parts of the scene he had made for the solicitor's office from information furnished by Henry as to the position of objects after the accident.

Fog Is Discounted.
D. H. Samples, driver for the Yellow Cab company, who reached Peachtree and Twelfth streets just after the accident, testified that when he took one of the injured men to Grady hospital he drove 25 or 30 miles an hour and was not handicapped in his driving by the fog.

J. W. Clay, foreman of the roadway department of the Georgia Railway and Power company, weighed the grinding machine the day after the collision and found it to weigh 3,440 pounds, Clay testified.

Jury Is Selected.
Practically the entire morning session was consumed in the selection of a jury. The twelve chosen were:

S. J. Fridell, president Fridell Bros., 42 Lake street.

J. M. Jennings, retired, 190 South Gordon street.

M. Whetter, Milner, real estate, 112 Lucile avenue.

J. M. Kellogg, real estate, 150 Vernon avenue.

A. J. Dunlap, Dunlap Tire company, 41 Brookline street.

B. M. Boykin, credit manager, 737 Peachtree street.

Through With Men, Declares Mother Of "Sonny" Whitney

Chicago, April 10.—Evan Burrows Fontaine, the dancer who recently engaged Cornelius Vanderbilt ("Sonny") Whitney in a sensational but highly unsuccessful paternity suit, promised on her arrival here Monday that she was "through with men" at least so far as marriage is concerned.

"It's 'Sonny' who counts mostly," she declared. "And then dancing. But men—pooh pooh!"

The "Sonny" Evan referred to was the innocent case belli for her $1,000,000 suit against Whitney, whom she has thus far gleaned only a few hundred front page newspaper stories and an arrest for alleged perjury.

Coal Demand Dull.
Washington, April 10.—In most of the larger bituminous producing districts in the eastern United States the demand for coal was dull April 1, according to a national survey of the conditions just completed by Fuel Distributor Wadleigh, while in the western territory many mines were closed down because of the lack of demand.

The investigation was undertaken to determine what had been the aftermath of the strike of 1922 and the winter coal shortage which followed.

Though still held back in some places by transportation disability and shortage of railroad cars, the market in West Virginia, the dull market was held to be nearly everywhere the chief factor now controlling the industry, and little longer shortage or difficulty was indicated.

In Kentucky territory the demand for coal was still found to be strong with railroad car supplies so far below requirements as to occasion great complaint.

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS.
BY RALPH H. TURNER.

United News Staff Correspondent. London, April 10.—Grave international complications impend if communist Russia places Patriarch Tikhon, head of the Greek Orthodox church in Russia, before a firing squad as was done in the case of Vicar General Constantine Butchkevich, of the Roman Catholic church, according to information given out by the British foreign office.

Downing street Tuesday stated bluntly that the British foreign office had been advised by an unofficial representative in Moscow that Butchkevich, who was shot from behind by an executioner in the Russian capital, was convicted on treason charges on the "flimsiest evidence."

Great Britain, it was made clear, regards the charges against Patriarch Tikhon as "trumped up" and "flimsy," and in case he is convicted may recall the British representative to Moscow and expel the Russian trade delegation to London, which is headed by M. Rothstein.

Opposes Confiscation.
Tikhon, as far as can be learned from the meager news reaching out of Russia, is charged with opposing the decrees of the government providing for the confiscation of church properties, and may, if convicted, be sentenced to death.

The Russian censorship, apparently, was lifted long enough Tuesday for the information to trek through that Tikhon's trial had been postponed from Wednesday until April 17.

The British government is interested in the Tikhon trial to a greater extent than it was in the trial of Butchkevich because a portion of the evidence against the former, it is understood, is based on his communications with the archbishop of Canterbury. The government, it is understood, plans a close check-up on all the evidence.

The foreign office received a full summary of the evidence against Butchkevich and officials generally agree that the evidence is "flimsy."

"Reactions to be noted in the newspapers throughout the country following the announcement of President Harding's candidacy for re-nomination and re-election indicate that the influence of his appeals to the people during his swing around the 'circle' next month will be greatly impaired by reason of this notice of his desire for a second term," the committee stated.

"It is believed that it is this fact which has prompted intemperate President Harding to come to regard Attorney General Daugherty's statement as premature and 'unfortunate.' Whether Mr. Daugherty pushed Mr. Harding's 'whether' into the public's notice of suppression, the fact

Every individual, newspaper and organization will be free to discount his statements as those of a political self-seeker and to suspect him of advocating or opposing men and measures not because of their relation to the welfare of the people, but rather because of the probable effect on his personal and partisan interests.

Leaves Hat in Ring.
Harding's speech leaves his hat in the ring. It is universally expected that he will be a candidate. But the president wants to put in another year's chief executive without having political motives imputed to all of his actions.

This tour of affairs probably will delay for some months the contemplated reorganization of the republican national committee. To put in a new chairman to succeed John T. Adams at this time would be regarded as another move toward getting the 1924 campaign started and that is exactly what Harding is seeking to avoid.

Harding will go ahead with his Alaskan trip regardless of the political complexion which has been given to it. He will leave here about June 20 and speak at a number of cities going and coming. Tentative itineraries have been arranged. He is expected to speak at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle on the coast, Minneapolis, Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati are mentioned on his preliminary schedule.

The president will seek to keep his addresses above the partisan level. He will discuss the armament conference, the railroads, the pending international court proposal and the achievements of congress. But regardless of Harding's wish, every speech will be taken apart and analyzed for its political elements. The only way Harding can escape being regarded as a political candidate is to announce that he will refuse a second term. This will not be done.

Will Close Today.
The next meeting place of the council will be selected at the session tonight. The conference will close Wednesday, after being in session for a week.

The resolution offered by Dr. W. W. Alexander, of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the Methodist committee on an inter-racial co-operation project calling on the people of the southern states, the pulpit and press to suppress lynching was as follows:

"Whereas, the defeat of the Dyer anti-lynching bill, which provided for federal control of lynching, has thrown the whole responsibility back upon each state for removing this hideous crime; therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the women's Missionary council of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in annual session at Mobile, Ala., April 4-11, 1923, do now demand of the authorities of the several states that they make good their claim by proving their competency to abolish mob violence and lynching.

"That we assume our responsibility as citizens for the protection of human life, and hereby call upon all the people of all the states, upon the pulpit and the press, to join against barbarous practices."

Plan Adopted.
The plan adopted to obtain the objects for which the resolution was adopted provides for a study of lynching.

The resolution offered by Dr. W. W. Alexander, of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the Methodist committee on an inter-racial co-operation project calling on the people of the southern states, the pulpit and press to suppress lynching was as follows:

"Whereas, the defeat of the Dyer anti-lynching bill, which provided for federal control of lynching, has thrown the whole responsibility back upon each state for removing this hideous crime; therefore,

DISGRACING ILLINOIS.
Williamson county, Illinois, has become the "black hole" of civilization.

All of the untold criminal indictments growing out of the tortures and massacres at Herrin that shocked the conscience of the world last June have been not-pressed at Marion, following the acquittal by a jury of six defendants charged with murder in connection with the outbreak.

The motion to not-press was made by Delos Duty, the state's attorney. Following this motion the special assistant attorney general of the United States, assisting in the prosecution, said:

"The prosecution is reluctantly obliged to admit justice can not be obtained in Williamson county. No impartial jury can be obtained to try the men responsible for the murder of a score of men and near Herrin last June."

"It is my opinion that further trial would be useless, result only in acquittals and continue the check-off from the wages of some 20,000 indigent men, many of whom are struggling against poverty. It would further jeopardize the lives of courageous and honest witnesses who have testified for the people of the state of Illinois, solely because of their respect for law and order."

The jury was out seven hours, but took only one ballot, being unanimous for acquittal on that ballot, despite the testimony alleged to have been direct and unmistakable. This was the second trial of a group of defendants, the first group having been as promptly and as unanimously acquitted as the second group, hence in the face of testimony, the prosecuting attorneys, including even an assistant attorney general of the United States, had to admit the absolute failure of the judiciary to function—the complete surrender of courts to the spirit of inquisition.

Georgia has had its mobs, and mob violence, with its horrors of the limb and the stake, has literally shocked the country; and justly so. From Chicago and from all over Illinois the voice of protest has been sounded the loudest, and no protest at mob murder can be too loud.

It is up to Illinois to clean her own house before pointing the finger of rebuke at Georgia or any other state where the mob defies the law.

The history of crime in America does not record a blacker page than the story of the Herrin riots and massacres. Innocent, helpless people, not even associated with either of the contending labor elements, were tortured in a manner that would be worthy of head-hunters, and crucified in a manner as horrible as in the days of the continental revolutions of the dark ages; and yet the crimes are condoned and implicitly approved in a court of misnamed justice, and the murderers are freed and heroized by men sworn to preserve the integrity of the law.

Illinois has been on trial before the jury of civilization; and in the acquittals at Herrin, Illinois has been convicted.

PARADOXICAL—BUT TRUE!

Secretary Mellon of the treasury, in a statement given to the Associated Press Sunday, forecast a further effort of the administration to have another reduction made in the surtax rates on incomes.

He took the position, which is tenable and one The Constitution has maintained for years, that "downward revision would have the effect of actually increasing rather than decreasing the federal revenue."

Coupled with this statement was a declaration by Mr. Mellon that the March collections, under such revision as has been accepted, "proved a beautiful answer to the tax problem, and shows clearly what course further revision should take."

The fact that lower rates and wider distribution increase revenue has become so firmly established that it is now a fixed rule in economics. It applies not only to taxes but with equally unerring results to utilities.

This statement from Secretary Mellon should not only be accepted with approval by the American people, but backed as it is by the actual experiences of the government based upon this year's reduced income rates and increased revenues, it comes as a directing example to states that are contemplating revision of their tax laws.

Secretary Mellon says:

"There is no point in maintaining high rates of taxation, which do not produce revenue, and there is no doubt that the high income tax rates which are still in effect are gradually defeating their own purpose. They create artificial conditions that tend to hamper business and industry and reduce the volume of income subject to taxation."

"The surtax rates, even under the revenue act of 1921 (the present law), rise as high as 50 per cent, giving a combined maximum normal and surtax of 88 per cent, and, as the treasury has pointed out in the past, these excessive rates produce such heavy pressure on the larger tax payers that inevitably they seek every possible means of avoiding the realization of taxable incomes."

The fact is that the 1921 revision provided a horizontal cut of approximately 25 per cent average in the surtax income rates under the first law created to meet war obligations.

And despite the deflations following the period of post-war inflation, and the depression that swept over the agricultural states in 1921 and '22, the government has collected this year approximately $100,000,000 more than in 1922 under the old law and the higher rates.

This is an answer that cannot be explained by the high tax rate advocates.

The statement of the secretary of the treasury and the federal income figures ought to be of tremendous value to the forthcoming Georgia legislature in its work of framing a new tax system.

As the situation is today thousands of Georgians and Georgia interests are overtaxed; other thousands are undertaxed; and still other thousands who are fully able by their earnings to meet their fair proportion of the exactions of government are legally immune from taxes.

There is no equity in the system, and by reason of its glaring unfairness and its antiquated provisions the revenues of the state are insufficient to meet the legitimate demands, not to take into account the requirements of the hour to keep Georgia in line with the progress of her sister states of the south.

The state rate is one-half of one per cent on all properties alike, whether assessed at 10 per cent merchantable valuation, or by prima facie par valuation, as money and cash securities, at 100 per cent. This is unfair, and keeps some of the largest property holdings out of the digests, and as invisibles they cannot be reached. County rates are ad libitum, without any systematic regulation, and in some counties the combined state, county and municipal rates are prohibitive against the importation of investment capital.

The Constitution has maintained that property of different classes should draw different rates, and that a system should be provided by which the heavy earner who has no property should be required to meet his just pro rata of the state's disbursements.

It has maintained in this connection that lower rates and wider distribution will be the answer to Georgia's financial troubles.

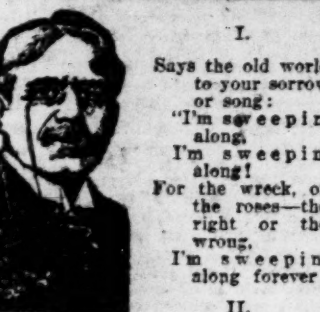

No stronger fortification could it seek for the safety and soundness of its position than the federal figures, and the conclusions drawn from them by the head of the treasury who takes the same position as to government taxation.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY Q. O. MINTYRE

New York, April 10.—It is becoming unbearable in Gotham for the man who dips bread in his coffee, reads comic papers and laughs to the wangs of a slapstick. Everything is growing boity-toity. From ordinary conversation to art and literature.

One of the boy book reviewers, just out of swaddling clothes, can see nothing in literature except books few understand. He thinks it is intellectual. He doesn't know he's only teething. Another column philosopher grouches daily at the faculty of finding a religion. What he needs most is a barber.

Another columnist, and really able, searches literature for plays for misplaced commas. All the plays are scoffed unless they come from some sex starveling in Czechoslovakia. If an audience understands a play and enjoys it it is immediately dubbed "Hokum."

Art exhibits are unworthy unless the paintings represent an orphaned child, a mother in a blue gown, or the portrait of a tree or a horizon inspires the merry hoot, and that painter should be one who has choked his vision of the universe with some other playful thing.

Conversation must be didactic. One must not discuss rose throats, the new parlor rug or grandma's spyness at 82. Rather must one have a ready tongue to dispute a new theory regarding rhodochrosite or to discuss the new domestic policy at Tsinan.

It is this place on New York, more low-brows—more of the same, more of the "Broad A" is fine but dignity and erudition can be carried too far. I don't know anything about the art of Schmitz, but I also like to hear if Johnny Doolley has invented any new trick falls.

And the latest and most stable appeal about the prose of Milton and Dryden, but there is also fascination in a lively excerpt from the powers of government.

The Accent is on "Worship." It would be well, also, for everyone to get it into his or her hair that the accent in all American declarations concerning religious freedom is on the word "worship." To deny that there is a God, or to denounce Him, or to blaspheme Him, is not "to worship God according to the dictates of one's conscience." It is "guaranteed" to every citizen by the first amendment to the constitution of the United States, why, for instance, can and does the state of South Carolina, in its constitution, provide that no man may be governor or hold any office under that constitution who denies the existence of a supreme being?

Judge Martin J. Wade, a great democrat, now judge of a federal district court in Iowa, says in his constitutional opinion that: "A state may change its constitution and thereby curtail freedom of speech and press as it may think necessary to protect its people," and, similarly, can curtail freedom of religion, more self-reliance, and more purpose.

In the famous case of Roberts, the Mormon congress excluded him from a seat in the house of representatives. Since I do not know I stand equally squarely for the enforcement of the first amendment. The only body that can violate that amendment is the board of trustees of the city of New York, who have just passed the 18th (or prohibition) amendment.

Mrs. Nelson rather jeers at me for standing squarely for the enforcement of the 18th (or prohibition) amendment. She says: "I stand equally squarely for the enforcement of the first amendment. The only body that can violate that amendment is the board of trustees of the city of New York, who have just passed the 18th (or prohibition) amendment."

Let me ask her and Mr. Toney why, if that amendment means so much to them, they claim for it, the constitution—makers of every state in the union felt it necessary to embody practically the same principle in their state constitutions. What sense would there be in those 48 repetitions of the terms of the first amendment to the federal constitution, if, in fact, it were not the whole subject for every citizen of the republic?

All the standard authorities on the constitution from Story down to Burdick, the latest, agree that the amendment means as to religious liberty exactly what I said it does—and that's why I said it.

Westward Ho! by Kingsley. "Vanity Fair" by Thackeray. "Colonel Carter of Cartersville" by F. Hopkinson Smith.

The poems of Sir Walter Scott. "The Ancestral of the Breakfast Table" by Oliver Wendell Holmes. "The plays of Shakespeare."

The essays of Emerson. "Plutarch's 'Lives.'" It is not easy to make comparisons of the ten books one likes the most, cause at different ages one's taste changes, and one's list is tentative and subject to change, but as I think of it at the moment the above list has probably given me much satisfaction and pleasure to others. At least, these come first to mind.

W. B. DISBRO HONORED BY LIBRARY TRUSTEES

Loving Cup Is Given to Retiring Member at Banquet Tuesday.

In recognition of his service to the Carnegie library as a member of its board of trustees for the past 15 years, W. B. Disbro, prominent Atlanta banker and trustee from the seventh ward, whose removal from inside the city limits makes him ineligible for re-election in May, was given a beautiful silver loving cup at a dinner tendered him at the library Tuesday night by the board of trustees and the library staff.

The presentation was accompanied by an eloquent tribute by W. W. Orr, former president of the board and patron of literature. Expressions of regret at Mr. Disbro's retirement were made by a number of prominent Atlantans.

Quoting Paul's word, "I have kept faith," Mr. Orr said, in presenting the cup, that it is hardly possible to pay a man a higher compliment than to say of him that he has kept the faith.

Worked, Not Talked. "He has been a worker, not a talker. He has not consumed his time telling us what is the matter with Atlanta and the world; but he has gone to work and quietly and effectively, without self-exploitation, doing those things that diffuse good will and build cities, by making men and women more efficient, more self-reliant, and more self-respecting; by causing them to realize the responsibilities of citizenship."

Some 25 years ago Mr. Disbro came to Atlanta from another city. He brought with him all the splendid inherent forces with which nature had endowed him.

For some 16 years Mr. Disbro has served on the board of trustees of the Carnegie library. During that period he has been president twice. He has been faithful in season and out of season, and has been inextricably bound up with this splendid institution. He has rendered a golden service that has endeared him not only to the staff and the board but to the entire city as well.

No Longer Eligible. "By moving his residence Mr. Disbro has rendered himself ineligible for the position of trustee of the board, a fact which is deeply regretted by all connected with this service. In handing to the retiring trustee the silver cup Mr. Orr said:

"We hope that you may be spared for many years to come, and that health, happiness and contentment may be yours for the remainder of your life. We are sure that you will be remembered by the great city of Atlanta in that last hour—may you be buoyed up by the sweet reflection of a vital service rendered, and the joyous assurance that Christ, the great Pilot, will take charge of your little bark as it slips out into the uncharted waters that reach from the shores of time, to the shores of God's infinite eternity."

In a brief talk of acceptance Mr. Disbro acknowledged the tribute, and expressed his regret at having to leave the board, and the pleasure experienced in the service.

Former Officers' Guests. President Edwin L. Harling was toastmaster. Among the speakers were Miss Tommie Dora Barker, Harling; Mrs. John E. Orr; and Mayor Sims. Several former presidents of the board were present as guests of honor.

HEALTH TALKS BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LET US SPRAY NOT OUR NEIGHBORS.

The saddest part of all the pain and suffering and loss of time and expense and physical impairment and disability and mortality caused by the respiratory infections which all ignorant people and some willful ones call "colds," is that it is mostly preventable. But unfortunately the delusion or superstition of "taking cold" is born and bred in nearly all of us, including those who become doctors or teachers of health; such a delusion or superstition, weakens or nullifies every attempt to prevent the free and unrestricted spread of these diseases.

The respiratory infections are so frightfully common, being responsible for about nine-tenths of all illness and occurring in every household or every family every year if not every season, that any organized campaign of prevention is practically out of the question; therefore the efforts of the health authorities are limited to enforcing certain regulations in such specific respiratory infections as diphtheria, cerebrospinal meningitis and whooping cough when cases are recognized; of course many cases are missed, unrecognized or deliberately concealed; such cases explain why it is almost impossible to stamp out the disease.

There are about a dozen respiratory infections, including the three just mentioned, which are specific, that is, the disease you catch when your neighbor sneezes you is the disease your neighbor has, be it diphtheria, chicken pox or scarlet fever. And besides there are about a dozen other respiratory infections which are not specific; that is, you may have tonsillitis or a mild coryza or a simple sore throat, but if you spray your neighbor the infection in his case manifests itself in the form of pneumonia or bronchitis, perhaps. In every case, however, the illness is at first what purports to be a "cold."

And if one harbors a notion that some alleged "colds" at any rate are purely attributable to drafts, wet feet and the like, one is unlikely to take any great pains to avoid spreading the disease, for any such precaution would be useless if the trouble were not communicable.

Right here is where most of the health authorities are at a grievance in their public health teaching. They wobble and waver just enough to leave the impression that a few of these so-called "colds" are not infectious conditions at all; so when we and I pick up a respiratory infection we trump up some imaginary recent exposure or wetting or draft and count ourselves the exceptions—our illness is not of the infectious order; hence if we are able we may keep about among folks. This is the reason public health instruction makes so little headway against the most prevalent of preventable diseases.

It is Utopian to look for any material improvement in the situation so long as the health authorities themselves are so far at sea in their notions of the causation of such diseases. The conscientious voluntary isolation of an occasional victim of coryza or other mild respiratory infection here and there can have no appreciable effect on the frightful prevalence of respiratory infections so long as the mass of people continue to spray their neighbors with all manner of such diseases without hindrance—may, with the approval of the constituted health authorities themselves. No child or adult with anything purporting to be a "cold" should be permitted to associate intimately with other people.

ROTARIANS' TEAM LEADS ARMY DRIVE

Salvation Army Campaign Total Exceeds $16,500. Employees of Postoffice Make Donation.

The new Rotary committee which has joined the forces of the Salvation Army campaign, turned in $187.50 as a result of the first preliminary round Tuesday morning, and will take the field today to clean up central downtown territory which has been assigned them.

The campaign total now stands slightly in excess of $16,500 in cash and pledges, with $806 reported Tuesday; of this amount $344 came in the mails and $402 was brought in by committee. A special effort is being made to get as many persons as possible who have not yet placed subscriptions with the workers, to mail these in directly to Preston S. Arkwright's office, with checks made payable to William T. Perkins, treasurer.

Postoffice Donation. The largest individual contribution received Tuesday came from the employees of the postoffice, who donated $102. The campaign at the postoffice was under the supervision of Postmaster E. K. Large. Thomas Fuller, of the Postoffice, Electric and Manufacturing company, turned in $93 from the employees of the Atlanta office. J. Regenstein's employees reported $207.15; Hubbard Brothers' employees $42; railway mail clerks $40; Johnson-Dallas company employees $30; Walker Brothers' employees $28; and the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce sent $25.

There is much activity in behalf of the campaign at the present time among railway workers in and around the city. W. W. Waite, who is in charge of collections from Southern railway employees, reports that collections are now in progress in all departments. J. H. Kerr, of the freight traffic office, has already turned in $47.50. Mrs. Virgil Estes is assisting various departments of the Atlanta and West Point in their campaign. The North Boulevard Civic League, under the direction of Mrs. H. T. Parks, has reported collections of $107, which is considered by campaign managers as an unusually fine showing for the small amount of residential territory which this team worked.

The men's Bible classes of the various churches of the city have been invited to appoint workers to assist in cleaning up the remainder of the fund. Several Bible classes which were reached on Tuesday signified their intention of furnishing the following churches: Central Presbyterian, First Baptist, North Avenue Presbyterian, West End Baptist, Trinity Methodist.

STUYVESANT FISH DIES SUDDENLY

Prominent Figure in Financial and Railroad World Collapses as He Enters New York Bank.

New York, April 10.—Stuyvesant Fish, veteran financier and railroad man, today dropped dead of heart disease as he entered the National City bank to attend a directors' meeting. He was sitting in a chair in the corridor. He was in his 72d year. Mr. Fish, who centered his attention on banking after retiring as head of the Illinois Central railroad, was in his fight with E. H. Harriman, who was in fairly good health until a month ago. Then a severe cold weakened him, but he continued to attend to business over the telephone. Today's sunshine encouraged him to leave his home earlier than usual to attend the directors' meeting. Doctors had warned members of his family that his heart was weak and they did their best to prevent him from over-exercising himself.

Wife Ruled the "400." Mr. Fish, whose father, Hamilton Fish, served as secretary of state in President Grant's cabinet, was for many years a forceful and picturesque figure in finance, while his wife, until her death a few years ago, ruled New York society as leader of the "Four Hundred."

The climax of Mr. Fish's career as a railroad man was reached in 1909, when one of his lieutenants, James Theodore Harahan, went over to the Harriman side in the controversy over control of the Illinois Central and replaced him as president of the road.

There was a stormy moment at the directors' meeting in Chicago when Mr. Fish stepped out of state and rushing in between Fish and Harahan, alone prevented a fist fight.

Although Mr. Fish retired as head of the Illinois Central, he was undeterred to have retained a heavy stockholding in the road. He served as a director of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, but in later years he chiefly was interested in banks, serving on several boards.

Interested in Prohibition. In the last year Mr. Fish became interested in the fight against prohibition. He was one of the leading spirits in the Association Against Enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment.

Mr. Fish was born in this city in June, 1851, just as his father was retiring from the governorship. He was educated at public schools and Columbia university. His first employment was in the New York offices of the Illinois Central. He was then a youth of 20.

He left the railroad to enter the employment of the banking firm of Morton, Elias & Co., and at 24 became a managing clerk. He bought a seat in the New York stock exchange a short time afterward, and then returned to the railroad game, when he was elected director of the Illinois Central. Soon he was made treasurer, and quickly made his way to the top of the organization.

The Illinois Central developed rapidly under his guidance. Then came the great struggle with Harriman. Some years later, in 1909, Mr. Fish, testifying in a suit to dissolve the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, declared that the Harriman consolidation was a competition destroying organization.

As head of the Illinois Central, Mr. Fish believed in thorough organization and strict discipline. He was described by his friends as a man with a kindly disposition. Partly because of the fact that he was a large man, with a loosely knit face, and a suggestive power and strength in reserve, Mr. Fish was compared to Abraham Lincoln.

Crescent City Is Overcrowded With Veterans

Sam Small Reviews Confederate Reunion—Fight for Next Meeting Looks.

BY SAM W. SMALL.
New Orleans, La., April 10.—(Special.)—The thirty-third Confederate Veterans' reunion starts with a whizz bang. The number already arrived, with accompanying visitors, exceeds every local expectation and preparation. Hotels are overpopulated now and available rooms will be exhausted by morning. Old veterans are showing themselves remarkably spry and enthusiastic in greetings and fraternizations.

While all lament the dwindling of the combatant gray ranks, yet they are resolute that, as God wills, the remnant shall assemble annually while there is a roll to call.

General J. B. Magruder, beloved commander in chief, followed by every vet with affection, is leading the host with skill and wisdom. He is a superb jollier and especially popular by his Chesterfieldian gallantry to the Daughters of the Confederacy, young and old.

Seraps for Meeting.

No signs of any sort of scrap appear except over the city for the 1924 reunion. The Texas and Louisiana bands, here with blood on their horns to capture it for Dallas, but Jacksonville and Memphis are fighting rivals, with the odds on the latter tonight.

Georgia is not as well represented as customary, or as at Richmond last year, but a notable flock of Empire State is showing up under the spirited leadership of General J. Colton Lynes.

Mrs. William A. Wright and her supporters of the memorial association are the recipients of praise and honors. Atlantans are arriving on every train from home and will be conspicuous in meetings, balls and parades.

Governor Trinkle, of Virginia, escorted by the famous Richmond Blues in full strength, and the John Marshall High school cadet band, is the ruling guest of honor at the moment.

Kentucky is here in force and Tennessee is represented strongly, especially notable for many distinguished men and women. Mississippi is not a whit behind any except Texas. Several of the old blue servant negro veterans are centers of constant interest in hotel lobbies and rousing the special lunch, applause and small coin gifts that feature all these occasions.

Puzzles Northerners.

Northern onlookers watch them with quite the curiosity one would show over a revived Tutankhamen and cannot figure out why these old southern heroes should show such open affection for the ancient dusky survivors of camp, battle and hospital.

The regular sessions begin tomorrow morning and interesting reports will be submitted and discussed.

Three grand balls feature Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. There will be seen the old-time beauty, valor and chivalry of the south that is no more and never will be again.

The strong tides of materialism are sweeping off the map of Dixie every symbol and sentiment that is counted as a drag or obstruction to the spirit that says: "Put money in the purse and crowd up toward the head of the procession led onward by Lord Mammon."

The Crescent City is always patriotic and liberal, but her leaders miscalculated this reunion's demands upon their public spirit and hospitality. They are working like whiteheads to recover their footing and doubtless will do it so well in the meantime as to quiet all temporary complaints.

Canon Preacher Dies.

Canon, Ga., April 10.—(Special.)—Rev. H. W. Whitwell, age 48, pastor of the Universalist church here and prominent attorney, died at his home in Canon today after a brief illness. He is survived by his widow and one daughter. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Canon, Ga., April 10.—(Special.)—For a price of $35,000 the Rome and Northern railroad was sold at receiver's sale this morning to a syndicate of Romans, composed of H. H. Shackleton, Wilson M. Hardy, Graham Wright, M. S. Lanier and Wash. Hunt. The sale was conducted by John B. Wheat, of the Atlanta Trust company, and there were no other bidders.

Plan Legislation To Limit Power Supreme Court

Borah Will Insist Upon Seven Votes to Validate Any Decision.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 10.—With a torrent of criticism pouring in upon the supreme court for knocking out the minimum wage principle, a general activity has become apparent, looking toward amendment of the constitution or other remedies which would prevent further decisions of the high court by a majority of one, on which this latest decision was virtually based.

Some of the important developments along this line occurred Tuesday:

1. Senator Borah reiterated his demand that congress enact a law requiring seven votes to validate a decision, as provided in a bill he recently introduced.

2. The National Woman's Trade Union league called a national conference of protest here against the decision at which ways of "humanizing" either the courts or the constitution will be considered.

Amendment Considered. Samuel Gompers stated Tuesday that he trusted the next congress would "find some way to extend effective protection" to women workers, hinting that a constitutional amendment to this effect might even be sought by organized labor.

"After the congress and the executive have approved a law as constitutional and the people have approved it, it seems unwise to have the law overturned by a 'yes' or 'no' upon the part of one judge," Borah declared. He said he believes congress has the power to pass a law such as he advocates, which provides that all state laws or acts of congress which are unconstitutional as called in question shall stand unless seven out of the nine judges hold them unconstitutional. Borah's views are members of congress, and it is likely they will press the matter at the coming session of congress.

Declaring that the 10-hour law in New York, the income tax law, the child labor law and the minimum wage law have all been killed by five to four decisions, Borah said that he does not believe it a good government to have that practice continued.

Gompers' Criticism. The bitterest criticism of the court's decision came Tuesday from Samuel Gompers, who declared that it was "repelling and almost beyond comprehension that such language and reasoning could be written into a decision of the court of last resort."

"I recall no recent decision which so basely sets forth the reactionary viewpoint of wage earners," he said. "The court says that labor is bought just as groceries are bought. All progressive and women must resent the language used by the court in this decision. It denies humanity. Women and girl wage earners are to be bought over the counter."

The only note of approval Tuesday came from representatives of the National Women's party. Their favorable comment brought a sharp rebuff from Gompers, who said that "it may not be amiss to point out at this time that this decision harmonizes exactly with the logic which supports the demand of an aristocratic woman's organization for a blanket amendment to remove all legislative inequalities between men and women, the effect of which would be to annul all laws seeking to protect women from some of the evils resulting of industry."

Women Will Meet.

Means of preventing wholesale reduction of women's wages in the 14 states affected by the decision will be discussed by the conference of various women's organizations called by the National Woman's Trade Union league.

"The women of the country have seen two child labor laws invalidated, and now the minimum wage law for which they have asked for nearly 30 years to put on the statute books," Miss Ethel M. Smith, secretary of the organization, said. "Their other statute, the Shepard-Towner maternity law, is also awaiting action from this same supreme court with the least possible encouragement, now that the court, with its new personnel, has added a decision which leaves out of consideration the social point of view, the public interest, and, in fact, the human element."

Anti-Klan Candidate For Louisiana Court Wins Despite Contest

Baton Rouge, La., April 10.—The suit contesting the nomination of District Judge H. F. Brunot for associate justice of the supreme court was thrown out of court here this afternoon. District Judges Columbus Reid and Robert Ellis, defeated aspirants, supported by the Ku Klux Klan sought to nullify the election on charges of irregularities. Brunot was the anti-klan candidate.

Judge W. C. Caruth sustained the motion of the defendant that the Reid-Ellis forces had no cause of action, as neither would be the common law should the election boxes that were attacked by thrown out by the court.

RULE ON MILEAGE BOOKS TO STAND

Interstate Commerce Commission Refuses Rehearing of Order Calling for Lower Rates.

Washington, April 10.—Petitions asking for reconsideration of the recent ruling requiring railroads to sell interchangeable mileage books at reduced rates were denied today by the interstate commerce commission.

The action closes the record in the mileage book case in so far as the commission is concerned, and unless the petitioners take their objections into the courts the books will go on sale May 15 on nearly all class 1 railroads, except those in the eastern district.

The status of mileage book installation in the eastern district will be determined finally by action of the federal court at Boston, before which all of the railroads in the east, with the exception of the Baltimore and Ohio, have presented a demand for a restraining order. The Baltimore and Ohio joined with various southern and western roads and the American Farm Bureau Federation in seeking the rehearing which was denied today.

No explanation was attached by the commission to its order dismissing the petition. The mileage book tickets, sale of which was abandoned by the railroad administration during the war, were ordered reinstated by a resolution introduced by Senator Watson, republican, and passed at the last session of congress. The commission ordered the railroads to sell books good for 2,500 miles of travel and interchangeable 12 train railroads, at a reduction of 20 per cent below regular passenger fares.

ORDER RAILROADS TO REDUCE RATES ON PEANUT OILS

Washington, April 10.—Railroads serving Houston, San Antonio, Dallas and Sherman, Texas, were ordered today by the interstate commerce commission to put into effect on June 5 reductions in all rates on peanut and cottonseed oil.

The measure of the reduction was fixed by a requirement that after June 5 rates from Memphis territory to the four Texas cities be limited to 47.5 cents per 100 pounds, from St. Louis territory, 59.5 cents per 100 pounds, from Nashville territory, 61 cents, and from Macon territory, 63 cents.

Child's Evidence Tightens Noose Around Accused

"He Killed My Mamma," Cries Tot, in Witness Box. May Plead Insanity.

Chicago, April 10.—State attorneys here will ask for the death penalty for Caspar Pastoni, on the strength of testimony given Tuesday by the 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Wittich, whom Pastoni is charged with slaying. Patricia, a 4-month-old daughter, also died of wounds, when the state charges Pastoni inflicted.

Agatha Margaret Wittich, the little motherless girl, was called before Judge Kersten. The jury was excused. In answer to the judge's question of whether she knew of God, the girl replied:

"Yes, mamma taught me."

"Do you know what it means to tell the truth?" the judge continued. "I always tell the truth," came the answer.

"Do you know where little girls go who don't tell the truth?" asked the judge. "To jail," the girl replied without hesitation.

The jury was called back into the room and the girl was placed on the stand. She pointed two chubby fingers at Pastoni and said:

"That man killed my mamma. He took me from the mother and shot me, then he shot little Pat, and then he killed my mamma."

Defense counsel sought vainly to shake the tot's story but she stuck to the accusation firmly. Counsel then intimated they would plead insanity for Pastoni.

STATE APPROVAL SHOULD BE FINAL, DRUGGISTS CLAIM

Washington, April 10.—Petitions have been filed by retail druggists with Commissioner Blair, of the internal revenue bureau, asking him to set aside regulations prescribed by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes compelling all permits for withdrawal of liquor to be submitted to the Washington headquarters for final approval. The druggists seek in their request for a decentralization of the work to have the permits finally approved by state directors, thus, they contend, speeding up their passage through government channels.

Neither internal revenue nor prohibition bureau officials would discuss the petitions which, it was declared today, are in the nature of a protest against the concentration program worked out by Commissioner Haynes some time ago. The druggists contend that such necessary delay is encountered by all interests seeking withdrawal permits.

Chief Lieutenant Of Irish Leader Dies of Wounds

De Valera Believed Safe From Pursuit Following Capture of Lieutenant.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
London, April 10.—It is officially reported that Liam Lynch, republican leader, wounded in a clash with the regulars today, died at Connelley's evening, according to a Dublin dispatch to the exchange Telegram.

Lynch was the chief of staff of the irregular army and a dominant figure in its army councils. He has a powerful influence over Eamon de Valera, with whom he worked in concert. Both men signed all important decisions and virtually constituted the republican directorate.

When gaps were caused by the capture of his men, Lynch always was able promptly to fill their places. His assistant was Liam Deasy, who after he was arrested some time ago and the death sentence imposed upon him, issued an appeal for peace. Deasy's place was filled by Con Moloney, who was recently captured. Lynch then found another man of his own temper to take Moloney's place, and both Lynch and this man voted against the peace proposals of the Most Rev. John Hart, archbishop of Cashel.

In the fighting against the British, Lynch and Deasy were chief assistants and close friends of the late Michael Collins.

Later, however, Collins was unable to persuade them to accept the Anglo-Irish treaty. Lynch was captured during the fighting at the Four Courts building in Dublin last June, but was released. It is alleged, on parole, which he broke.

BRITTON TELLS OF LOSING DECISION TO TED LEWIS

Jack Asserts He Felt Sure He Was Leader on Points When Title Was Given to Kid

After Lewis Won Welterweight Crown He Declined to Do Business With Britton Except In No-Decision Bouts.

BY JACK BRITTON.
(Ex-Welterweight Champion.)

Copyright, 1923, United States and Canada, by North American Newspaper Alliance, for The Constitution.

Every time a champion goes into the ring for a decision fight he takes a chance that it is worth a lot of money to him. That is one of the reasons why champions and first-class contenders ask such big percentages for boxing under the decision law in New York.

I do not mean to create the impression that I am anything off-hand in the work of judges and referees in New York or other big boxing centers. On the contrary, I am sure that some of the queer decisions such as took the titles away from Harry Greb and Pancho Villa were sincere opinions of the officials that they had lost but that their judgment was founded on mistaken ideas about the game of points.

The loss of my championship to Ted (Kid) Lewis in Dayton, Ohio, in 1917, I have always thought, was due to faulty judgment although I admit that boxers are very few who will admit that they lost a decision on slim points. Perhaps there is some truth in the opinion that a boxer in the heat of action is not in a position to give an accurate judgment of his own work. Anyway, I lost a 20-round decision and the title to Lewis and it stands on the books.

Battling Levinsky was scheduled to fight in the east several days before my bout with Lewis was to be held and Dan Morgan, figuring that he was needed in Levinsky's corner, did not go out to Ohio until the day before the fight.

Argued Over Referee.

I went to Cincinnati with my brother-in-law, Harold Morton, to do my training as the promoters thought my presence there would increase interest in the bout among Cincinnati people. There was the usual controversy about the referee, Morgan holding out for Walter Kelly, but I got tired of the arguments and agreed to Lou Bauman, a Cincinnati man, who was highly regarded in that section as an official.

My only purpose in training was to get my less strong and my wind good. I didn't have to do much boxing as I knew enough about Lewis to feel sure that I could beat him if I was strong enough to keep going fast for 20 rounds.

Just before the bout started on the night of the fight, Morgan told me to keep him off with my left hand and try to wear him down as I never had much trouble in reaching him with a right.

"Hit it up in the 20th round, if it goes that far. Lots of decisions go on the last round regardless of what is done before," he said.

The bout when it got under way wasn't particularly exciting, Lewis was very cautious and I didn't get many openings. I felt that I was

MERCER BEATS CUMBERLAND

Lebanon, Tenn., April 10.—(Special.)—Reversing the situation of the game yesterday in which Mercer was trailing Cumberland in the first four innings, Mercer completely outplayed the Bulldogs for four innings today.

The two teams were tied at 0 to 0 when Mercer continued to hold his own, and came out on top of an 8 to 0 score.

I did. I gave Lewis everything I had and put him down with a left hook to the jaw for the count of nine. He got up and held on for a while but he was weak in the knees when the round ended and he weaved over to his corner.

Feeling positively sure that there was no question about the verdict, I walked back to my corner. For no particular reason, I turned around to ward the referee as I was getting into my robe and saw him point to Lewis as the winner.

The decision stunned me for a moment and then I lost my head. I ran across the ring but Morgan jumped through the ropes and chased over after me.

"You can kill a hundred and it won't get your title back. If you lost a pile of dough on a race it wouldn't get the jack back if you suggested the horse, would it?" Morgan argued and I finally cooled off and felt ashamed that I had looked like a poor loser.

Had to Use Tricks.

Minus the title, there was only one thing ahead of us and that was getting it back. When we returned to New York we tried to get Lewis to talk business but all we could get out of Jimmy Johnston was a laugh.

"We are now in the no-decision business with you. The Kid will not give the old man another crack. Look elsewhere, gentlemen," Johnston would say every time we put the subject up to him.

It did no good to point out that I had given Lewis four decision fights when I held the title. Nothing could move Johnston from his stand. He finally consented, perhaps because he could get no other good cards, to give us three no-decision bouts. In each one, Lewis might just as well have come in the ring on a motorcycle as I couldn't get near him.

As long as Johnston was handling Lewis we could not get any kind of a decision fight plan across on him but finally they broke and Charley Harvey took over Lewis.

Harvey then took the initiative and came around asking Dan if he knew a good place for a bout.

"Decision?" Dan asked.

"No decision," Harvey replied.

I thought Dan would try some of the arguments that he wasted on Johnston, but he surprised me.

"Yes, I know a good place, Charley—Canton, Ohio."

The match was made. I thought it was peculiar that Dan had accepted the bout with so much affability and I was surprised that he had selected Canton. He had worked up a plan for a little strategy, however, and I will relate the plan and how it worked in winning the title for me in the next and last chapter.

GEORGIA STARTS SPRING GRID WORK

Athens, Ga., April 10.—(Special.)—"Kid" Woodford, appointed head coach and beloved alumnus of the University of Georgia, arrived from Columbus and in accordance with a call for spring football practice, set under way with some hundred or more candidates Monday afternoon.

The Kid took his men to the new polo field and looked over his most promising punters and had the others busy passing the ball, etc. to again familiarize themselves with the feel of the pylon. In addition to such preliminaries, they were of course put through some conditioning work, and before the spring session is over the coach expects to see them in actual scrimmages.

The new mentor, in a recent letter to the college weekly, Red and Black, sounded a keynote when he said, "Come on, come on; you'll be taken care of."

BRENNAN RETIRES FROM RING GAME

New York, April 10.—Bill Brennan, of Chicago, heavyweight pugilist, long known as a trial horse for fighters aspiring to a bout with Champion Jack Dempsey, is through with the ring game, his lawyer, Joseph J. Jacobs, announced today.

The announcement was made when Mr. Jacobs was being interviewed about a summons against the Mail and Express company, publishers of The New York Evening Mail, filed on behalf of Brennan. Mr. Jacobs said Brennan was suing The Evening Mail for publication of an article regarding his "slid down" in his recent bout with Luis Angel Firpo, of Argentina.

Brennan, who spent several days in the hospital after the bout, recovering from a slight concussion of the brain, will devote his time in the future to the real estate business, his lawyer said.

SISLER MAY NEVER PLAY

TO UNDERGO OPERATION.

St. Louis, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Sisler, adjudged the best all-around player in the American league, will undergo an operation for an infected sinus condition, probably Friday, it was learned today.

The sinus condition has affected in some degree Sisler's vision, but the nature of the eye trouble has never been disclosed.

Sisler will issue a statement of his condition and when he expects to return to the Browns' lineup it was said, shortly after the operation. It is impossible to speak with certainty at this time about his return to the game, it was explained.

St. Louis, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Sisler's eyes are the principal topic of conversation among local fans.

The uncertainty of his appearance on the field was emphasized today when an eye specialist, who is treating Sisler, said that "one can't say at present, the exact date of Sisler's recovery," adding that the star's "vision is normal in each eye," emphasizing the word "each."

The oculist refused to amplify the latter assertion. There has been an unverified report that the adjudged all-around best player in the American league is "cross-eyed."

Business Manager Bob Quinn, of the Browns, today, without disclosing Sisler's trouble, stated he understood the first baseman's affliction was improving, but that he was not expected to play for "three or four weeks."

Sisler's trouble is the result of an attack of influenza last February which left in its wake a sinus affection and this is said to have caused the eye affliction. His right eyelid, which was injured at the close of last season, is reported as cured.

May Never Play.

New Orleans, La., April 10.—George Sisler, St. Louis American first baseman and regarded as the most valuable player in organized baseball, probably will not be in the Browns' lineup this year and may never play ball again, according to a story appearing today in The New Orleans Times-Picayune.

The newspaper declares a severe attack of influenza left Sisler's eyes seriously affected and that he gradually is learning that he will ever play another game. Sisler, according to the story, is said to be afflicted with double vision as a result of the illness, and after attempting to play this spring rested in the hope the trouble was only temporary. After a reasonable time, however, he found the affliction severe and now is under treatment to keep his eyesight from being affected.

From other sources it was understood there is a strong probability that Sisler will submit to an operation in the near future.

Lee Fohl, manager of the club, declined to discuss reports that his first-sacker was out of the game for good but said he did not expect him to start the season and did not know when he would be able to report. The Browns left here last night for Memphis.

TARHEEL NINE HITTING HARD

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 10.—(Special.)—The opening three baseball games played by Carolina in the season in which the team has started hitting. An average for the twelve men who took part in any of the contests shows a mark of .330 compared with the 1922 nine average for the entire season of .272. This average may fall off as the season progresses, but such is not usually the case; baseball teams, as a general thing, improve in hitting as warmer weather and more games come on.

In the three games played against the Navy, Maryland and Davidson the university team scored a total of 28 runs compared with 16 by opponents. This may indicate weak pitching on both sides, perhaps, but it may also indicate hard hitting.

Earle Bonner, outfielder and catcher, made a home run against Maryland at Rocky Mount, and Ed Sweetman, star centerfielder, added another against Davidson at Gastonia. Carolina got a total of 11 such wallpats last year.

Many Triples.

Sweetman, Morris and Shirley each secured a triple on the trip and McLean, Shirley, Hones, Gibson and Bryson each hit a base each for two bases. This gives the team two home runs, three triples and five doubles on its first trip.

Coltrane, a new pitcher who was given a trial against Maryland, went to the bat one time and hit safely, which places him at the top of the list, of course; John Coffey comes next with two safeties out of three attempts, and then among the regulars who played all the time, "Mule" Shirley has the highest average, .557.

A total of nine players hit above the .300 mark. The complete record for the trip is as follows:

Player	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	PCT.
Coltrane	1	0	0	1	1.00
Coffey	2	3	0	2	.667
Bryson	2	9	3	4	.44
Shirley	3	14	3	5	.357
McDonald	3	12	6	4	.333
Morris	3	12	2	4	.333
Gibson	3	12	2	4	.333
Perabee	2	3	1	1	.333
Sweetman	3	13	3	4	.307
McLean	3	14	2	4	.285
Bonner	3	12	3	3	.250
Jones	3	10	2	2	.200
Team Avg.	3	118	28	38	.300

JOHNSON - FULTON BATTLE IS BARRED

New York, April 10.—The State Athletic commission today crunched its heel on the proposed encounter between Floyd Johnson and Fred Fulton in Jersey City next Monday night.

The commission ruled that Johnson, as well as all other boxers under contract to appear in the Milk Fund show at Yankee stadium May 12, must refrain from taking part in any contest prior to that date.

Johnson and Fulton also were matched to box in Boston next Monday according to the claims of Boston promoters, who have taken their case to the Massachusetts Boxing commission.

Because of these claims the New York commission added to its ruling the promise that Johnson and Fulton would be compelled to go through with their contracts in other states after Johnson had carried out his contract to meet Jess Willard at the Yankee stadium.

Stribling Will Battle Howard

Macon, Ga., April 10.—(Special.)—Young Stribling's next fight here will be one that will create a greater furor than any he has ever taken part in since his battle here with George Shade, according to fight fans, who made the prediction following the announcement by "Pa" Stribling of his boy's opponent for the bout here on April 19.

The man Stribling is to meet is "Happy" Howard, of New York, now located at New Orleans. Howard probably has the best record of any man Stribling ever met, and the bout is one that Macon fans have been calling for for months. He has twice met Harry Greco, and has met Jeff Smith and Mike O'Dowd. He also holds a decision over Mike McTigue, a world light-heavyweight champion.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Boys' High waited three weeks to win a ball game but the first victory of the season thus far amounts to an entire season in the minds of Boys' High students, for Tech High was beaten Tuesday afternoon, 2 to 1, in a pitcher's battle between Maghee of Boys' High and Lawson of Tech High.

Boys' High entered the game with a record of four games played and exactly the same number lost, while the Smithies suffered their first defeat of the season Tuesday afternoon at Piedmont park. A team may be down but it is never out and Boys' High team of late are noted for their wonderful playing just when the odds are heaviest against them.

To Maghee and Elbert Roane go the credit for the victory. Maghee pitched masterly ball all during the nine innings and allowed the hard-hitting Smithies but 4 hits, one of these being delivered in the seventh by Lawson, one in the seventh by Roane, when a run was scored and two in the ninth by Bell and Brock. Maghee struck out 4 of the Smithies and his control was the chief factor in the victory. Elbert Roane was a hero for he came to bat in the ninth inning with two men on the bases and laid down a perfect bunt in front of the plate on a squeeze play and scored Merriman with the winning tally.

gled to right field. Coach Tolbert yanked Lawson and sent Dick Florio to the mound. Dick uncoiled a wild pitch and Merriman took second. Pat Stephens hit one to Florio and he threw badly to first base. Merriman taking third and Stephens holding first. Stephens went to second while Florio held the ball. Coach came to bat and laid down a perfect bunt on a squeeze play and Merriman scored the victory.

Howard Lawson pitched a good game for Tech High but two costly errors on the part of his mates let a Boys' High runner cross the plate in the sixth inning. He struck out 17 of Boys' High batters and secured one of the four Tech High hits.

Boys' High was first to score in the sixth inning. Turner struck out to start. Woodbury singled. Brown struck out but Merriman got a life on an error. Stephens singled and Woodbury scored. Tech High secured one in the seventh when Settle walked. Bell struck out, Edmondson reached first on an error. Brock singled, sending Settle to third. Settle scored on a Boys' High error.

Tech High came near scoring a run in the ninth on hits by Bell and Brock but Bell was thrown out at the plate on Brock's hit to right field. Brock played a good game at first and secured two of the Smithies hits.

G. M. A. Pulls Rally.

G. M. A. came from behind and beat Commercial High, 11 to 10, in the ninth inning Tuesday afternoon at College park. The game was close from the very beginning with plenty of hitting on both sides. It was a battle of southpaw pitching, with Smith, of G. M. A., having the edge on Williams. G. M. A. hit much harder than Commercial and therein lies the story of the victory.

G. M. A. was not to be outdone by Commercial in the scoring of the ninth inning, and entered the ninth with four runs in the rear. Some excellent pinch hitting coupled with a Commercial error gave the Smithies a victory. G. M. A. made three three-base hits, one two-base and two home runs during the game. Smith, of G. M. A., struck out nine Commercial batters. The score by innings: R. H. E.

"Bluebirds" Keep Lead.

University school continued to lead the prep baseball league when Decatur was beaten 12 to 4 in eight innings at Piedmont Tuesday afternoon. Jake Mansby started on the mound for University but was yanked in the third when four runs were made off his delivery. Bradley Boswell relieved him in the third and did not allow a hit the remainder of the game. Mansby was the hitting star of the game.

Two Jacket Records Tied In Tech's Field Events

In Pretty Struggle, Anderson Beats Barron in Field Day 100-Yard Dash.

BY JOHN STATION.

Tech field day Tuesday was a huge success, both from a standpoint of records and participation. Two Tech records were tied, and several were closely threatened. More entries than ever before made the meet unusually interesting, as well as beneficial to all participating.

Anderson and Red Barron fought out a pretty 100-yard dash, Anderson crossing the tape in the lead by inches. The time in this event was 10.3 seconds, exceptionally good for this time of year. The Tech record is 9.8 on flat, held jointly by Strupper and Servino.

Lonkso Welsh tied the Tech record in the pole vault when he cleared the bar at 12 feet even. "Callopie" Welsh threw the javelin 180 feet, thus breaking the Tech and southern records. The throw was not official, however.

100-yard dash, varsity, Anderson, Barron, Hill, Sessions, Time, 9.3 seconds. 100-yard dash, open, Crowder, Murray, Byrd, Time, 10.6 seconds. Pole vault, Welsh, Coach, Williams, Height, 12 feet. Shot put, Wheeler, Hankins, Urry, Distance, 28 feet 2 1/2 inches. 120 high hurdles, varsity, Sens, Williams, Moore, F. B.

with a home run in the fourth, Angley contributed to the stickwork with a three-base smash.
Mallory of Decatur hit one for the circuit in the third and Griffin hit one for two bases in the second inning that helped in the run getting for Decatur.

Marist Defeats Fulton.

Marist beat Fulton High 3 to 3 at Brashe Tuesday afternoon in a game full of errors. Ten bobbles were made by the two clubs, mainly because of a skinned diamond.
John Bradley was the star of the victory. He knocked a home run in the fourth, with two men on base, and held Fulton to 6 widely scattered hits during the nine innings. He struck out 7 of the Fulton High batters.

Van Houten made one of the most spectacular catches ever made in prep baseball, according to members of the Marist team when he raced back into centerfield and speared one with a gloved hand with his back to the batter. It was a great catch.
Red Wintz, of Marist, contributed his part of the hitting with a four-pitcher smash in the seventh with two on base. Both the men that scored on the home runs were put on the bases by walks and an error.

Gay played the best game for the leaguers, getting a two-base hit and earning much ground in center field. Bradley pitched himself out of several bad holes. In the first inning six men faced him and but one scored. Again in the fifth he pitched out of but water for 8 men faced him with two scores recorded.

The score by innings:

PETREL FRAT GAMES GOOD

BY BILL MORROW.
Frank Aerial would have turned green with envy had he been present at the Alpha Lambda Tau—A. A. and Stray Greek competition battle that was fought through nine fights to the death in the eighth and evening, 11 to 7, at Oglethorpe Tuesday.

The K. A. Stray Greek combination action died with their boots on and when the final runner had popped out, several members of the losing team were seen sobbing heavily and several suicides are predicted before this yarn goes to press.

The game yesterday was the second in the list of fraternity battles that will be played while the Oglethorpe Petrels are touring through Maryland and Kentucky. In the first battle the Phi Kappa Phi nine was the winner over the Delta Sigma Phi team by the score of 10 to 8.

With the veteran "Rant" Hambrick directing procedures behind the plate, the winning team were able to out-generals their opponents.

Rich Martin at short, was another bright star in the winners' camp. He handled many tries with a grand old-fashioned better support, would have accounted for a win if not for the Alpha Lambda line-up for they hit the apple with a vengeance and scored their counters in the first, fourth, sixth, seventh.

The Alpha Lambda's called in the first, fourth, fifth and eighth frames while the K. A. Stray Greek team scored their counters in the first, fourth, sixth, seventh. The game rocked on to the seventh with neither team being able to untie a tie score, but in the eighth several big home run batters must have been smuggled in to the Alpha Lambda line-up for they hit the apple with a vengeance and scored their counters in the first, fourth, sixth, seventh.

Hamilton, winning pitcher, surrendered seven safe hits, eleven runs, three home runs, and three errors. His arm lasted nicely throughout the nine innings and he was called in for the tenth inning. The final score was 10 to 7 in favor of the "Energy" Hopkins.

WYKOFFE BEING GROOMED As Jackets' Fullback

practically the whole Tech backfield has been wiped away, but good men are left to take the places of those departed.

Good Tackles Essential.
No football team can be stronger than its tackles. That position is the keystone to both the offense and defense. Good tackles—a good team; weak tackles—a weak team.

Tech has some good tackles left, but not enough of them to go through such a hard schedule. Additional men must be developed from somewhere. Gardner and Merkle, the latter a tackle on last year's freshman team, are the choice for ends next season. Very and McConnell would make a fine pair of tackles should Coach Alexander decide to shift McConnell, McIntyre and Borum, at guards, does not sound like a bad idea. Fleetwood will again take care of the pivot position.

Farnsworth will be eligible for fullback next year, though he will probably be shifted to half to make room for Wykoffe, freshman fullback of last year, and the raminings (thing since Jack Hardin, Adams and Hunt at half and quarter, respectively, would complete a strong backfield.

Spring football practice begins this afternoon at Tech and about fifty men from the squad last season will answer roll call. Each man on the list of spring football men has been issued full fighting regalia, indicating that Coach Alexander intends to indulge in some real work early the last of May rolls around.

And, work will be necessary to even finish the schedule which Tech has for next year, much less do anything with it. With Penn State, Notre Dame and Auburn on the schedule, one can see the need of much practice.

The abundant material of previous years is no longer on hand and the team lacks in material it must make up in work. Many of the old stand-bys and fine players are gone. Their places must be filled with men, perhaps a little less experienced, which means that each man must work the harder.

The real shortage is not going to be in the backfield next year, as many suppose, but at the tackles. True, the K. A. Stray Greek aggregation presented some wonderful stars that had evidently lost a base ball in some part of their younger days. Hugh Turner in the box for the losers, pitched nice ball, and had the best given better support, would have accounted for a win if not for the Alpha Lambda line-up for they hit the apple with a vengeance and scored their counters in the first, fourth, sixth, seventh.

Hamilton, winning pitcher, surrendered seven safe hits, eleven runs, three home runs, and three errors. His arm lasted nicely throughout the nine innings and he was called in for the tenth inning. The final score was 10 to 7 in favor of the "Energy" Hopkins.

Good Tackles Essential.
No football team can be stronger than its tackles. That position is the keystone to both the offense and defense. Good tackles—a good team; weak tackles—a weak team.

Tech has some good tackles left, but not enough of them to go through such a hard schedule. Additional men must be developed from somewhere. Gardner and Merkle, the latter a tackle on last year's freshman team, are the choice for ends next season. Very and McConnell would make a fine pair of tackles should Coach Alexander decide to shift McConnell, McIntyre and Borum, at guards, does not sound like a bad idea. Fleetwood will again take care of the pivot position.

Farnsworth will be eligible for fullback next year, though he will probably be shifted to half to make room for Wykoffe, freshman fullback of last year, and the raminings (thing since Jack Hardin, Adams and Hunt at half and quarter, respectively, would complete a strong backfield.

Spring football practice begins this afternoon at Tech and about fifty men from the squad last season will answer roll call. Each man on the list of spring football men has been issued full fighting regalia, indicating that Coach Alexander intends to indulge in some real work early the last of May rolls around.

And, work will be necessary to even finish the schedule which Tech has for next year, much less do anything with it. With Penn State, Notre Dame and Auburn on the schedule, one can see the need of much practice.

Phillips is president, paid a tribute of love and respect to Mrs. Ella Winburn, by attending in a body the funeral services which were held for her Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel at H. M. Patterson & Son. Mrs. Winburn was one of the best loved members of the chapter and held the personal affection and esteem of each individual member. For two years she had served as chairman for the Atlanta chapter of the Soldiers' home committee and devoted her time and attention to the work for the old soldiers of the Lost Cause, working with unflinching zeal and devotion with her committee, in promoting their happiness and comfort. She was a member of the Atlanta Woman's club and a consistent member of the Methodist church, attending St. Paul's church.

Mrs. Winburn was 74 years old. She was one of the best loved women in Atlanta, known far and wide for her good works and for her gentle nature. Seminary Field Exercises Take Place This Morning

The annual "Field day," at Washington seminary in which all the students from the first grade grammar school to the senior class participate, will take place this morning at 12 o'clock.

This occasion is one of the outstanding events on the school calendar, and preparations are constantly made throughout the year by all participants in the gymnasium classes. The drills are done in time with music and are very beautiful in their formation. Perhaps the prettiest drill is the flag drill, which is done with each girl holding two small American flags. The classes are divided off in lines. Then come the wand drill, the Indian club and last of all the setting-up exercises.

All the field day events are under the supervision and direction of Miss Dorothy White, athletic instructor at the seminary.

Besides the drills the students take part in many forms of athletics and the class winning the most points in their favor is to receive a beautiful Washington seminary banner. The class events are as follows: Fifty-yard dash, running high jump, running broad jump, hop-step, jump, basketball distant goal throwing, wheelbarrow race, three-legged race, obstacle race and under relay race.

The Tech High School orchestra will furnish the music.

Those acting as judges will be I. C. Marbury, Miss Myra Graves, Miss Harriett Haynes, Miss Lucy Adams, Mr. La Coeur, Percy Rhyme, Mr. Holt and O. K. David.

Pan-Hellenic Council Dance.

A social event among college circles was the dance given by the Pan-Hellenic council of North Georgia Agricultural college (Dahlgren) at the Mountain Inn the past weekend.

This dance was the fourth and last dance given by the council this term. The popularity of these dances has always attracted a large number of the college set, and much interest and enthusiasm was manifested at this dance.

The latest dance hits were rendered by a popular orchestra and added to the success of the occasion. About 100 enjoyed the evening dancing in the large dance hall of the famous summer resort hotel.

Among the guests of the festivities were Misses Doris Dyer, Helen Torrance, Bertha Mae Todd, Willa Chapline, Mary Pope Reese, Roberta Ross, Mary Jane Huddleston, Helen Storing, Eleanor Beebe, Margaret Marphree, Marjorie Lyons, Frances Gibson, Lily Lightsey, Betty Whitfield, of Brenau; Miss Sara Shaw, of Lucy Cobb; Miss Elizabeth Wat-

Dr. Norwood, president of the Ohio literary club, says "her historical addresses are interesting and valuable, showing research, insight and discrimination, while in the plantation stories she creates the very atmosphere of the Old South."

The public is invited to share with the U. D. C. members the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Shearer in "A Lady of the Old South." Tickets are $1 each; student's rate, 50 cents, and can be obtained from any member of the executive board, at Cable hall or at the chapter house.

William Tell To Be Presented At Operalogue

"William Tell," Rossini's charming opera will be presented at the Atlanta Woman's club Wednesday at 3 o'clock, being the sixth in the brilliant list of the opera muscicals which have been put on with such success this season.

The Metropolitan orchestra of 30 pieces will play the overture, and this feature will be an additional attraction. The opera itself is universally popular and combined with the Metropolitan orchestra and the talent of the singers who will take part, the intrinsic charm of "William Tell" will make this sixth musicle an unequalled success.

As in "Lucia," the lyric soprano has many of the scenes, and also like "Lucia" the opera is flowery and full of melody.

Those taking part are well known vocalists and are well to their respective roles. Miss Frances Woodberry will carry the lyric soprano part, and Mrs. Bess Merrill Smith will sing the mezzo soprano scores. William Maurer and A. W. Browning will sing the tenor roles, and the bass will be rendered by John Mullier. Harry Bates is to sing baritone.

The program which is really lovely and artistic, is as follows:

Quartet—"Come Forth, O Maiden Fairest."

Solos—(Rondel, Fisherman), Mr. Maurer, tenor; (Tell) Mr. Bates, baritone; (Jenny) Miss Woodberry soprano; (Hedwig) Mrs. Smith, mezzo-soprano.

Recitative and Romance—"O Thou Lovely Wood," (Matilda) Miss Woodberry, soprano.

Recitative and Duet—"Yes, the Word at Last Has Been Spoken," (Matilda and Arnold) Miss Woodberry and Mr. Browning, soprano and tenor.

Trios—"While Every True-Hearted Switzer is Groaning," (Tell, Arnold and Walter), Mr. Bates, Mr. Browning and Mr. Mullier, baritone, tenor and bass.

It is not at all necessary to comment on the part which Miss Eda Bartholomew, at the piano, and Mrs. W. C. Jarnigan with the reading, play in the musicle, for every one knows that their contributions are invaluable.

This season will see "William Tell" presented in Atlanta for the first time and the musicle is therefore of more than the usual interest.

The price for the season ticket is $2, and single admission is 50 cents.

Whitney-Greer Wedding Is Quiet Church Ceremony

A quiet wedding of interest to many friends here was that of Miss Helen Whitney, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. Whitney, and Charles Greer, of Hamilton, Ohio, whose marriage was an event of Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. William Torrence Stuchell performed the ceremony at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Congregational church in the presence of a group of relatives and close friends.

Cleto Egbert, of Hamilton, Ohio, and as Mr. Greer's best man.

The beautiful bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Z. W. Whitney, was radiantly lovely in her traveling costume, a modish suit of gray pique tulle, embroidered in dark blue tulle. She wore a blouse of Egyptian design and a hat to match.

Her bouquet was of bride's roses, showered with lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Greer left for a wedding trip to Signal Mountain, Tenn., whence they will go to Ohio to visit before going to Hamilton, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Greer is an attractive and popular young girl. She is prominent in musical circles, and has a lovely contralto voice, which is well known to the members of WSB throughout the country, as well as to Atlantans.

For five years she was a member of the First Methodist church choir. With her sister, Mrs. Hazel Whitney Rolfe, who has a beautiful soprano voice, she has pleased many hearers with her singing of duets.

Mr. Greer is personal director of the Decker Paper company, of Hamilton, Ohio, and ex-secretary of the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce. He is a graduate of Miami university, of Oxford, Ohio, of which institution he is now a trustee.

He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and is well known in business and social circles of Hamilton.

The out-of-town guests at the wedding included Charles Sherr, of Hamilton, Ohio, a cousin of the groom's, and Mr. Cleto Egbert.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calico powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dirt and dirt secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calico powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—(adv.)

Charles Naegele To Paint Portrait Of Mrs. W. L. Peel

Charles Frederick Naegele, noted southern artist, has been engaged to paint a life-size portrait of Mrs. William Lawson Peel, of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R.

The beautiful colonial hall of this chapter house was erected through the ceaseless work of Mrs. Peel, who conceived the idea worked tirelessly on it until just before her death. She had the satisfaction of seeing the building completed. Her portrait will occupy a conspicuous space in the hall.

Mr. Naegele is also painting for the Joseph Habersham chapter a portrait of Mrs. Spencer R. Atkinson, long its president.

He has recently completed four portraits of Captain James W. Egan, one for the Fourth National Bank, and the others for his three children.

Mr. Naegele is now at work on a portrait of the late Colonel Robert J. Lowry for Mrs. Lowry, and of Joseph A. McGold, of the Federal Reserve bank.

For the Wesley Memorial hospital Mr. Naegele has recently completed portraits of Asa G. Candler and Dr. A. W. Calhoun, these being presented to the hospital by the medical faculty of Emory university.

Among the other portraits on which Mr. Naegele has been recently engaged, is of J. J. Spaulding, of Atlanta, and T. D. Tinsley, prominent capitalist of Macon. He has just finished for Mrs. J. H. Porter, wife of the vice president of the Bibb Manufacturing company, of Macon, a portrait of her mother, Mrs. Swann, of Covington.

Mr. Naegele's studio is at "Art Crest," which is on the road between Roswell and Marietta—reached from Atlanta by the Johnson's ferry road off of the Roswell road. His address is R. F. D. 10, Marietta, Ga. He maintained a studio in Atlanta for a long time but found that the dust and the smoke of the city interfered with the atmospheric and lighting conditions, and for that reason he located on a beautiful eminence in Cobb county—where he erected a studio, where he now lives and where for the past few years he has done all of his work.

Mr. Naegele's portraits are in some of the greatest art galleries in America—two of them being conspicuous features in the Corcoran Art gallery in Washington. Perhaps no artist has ever done as much portrait work for Georgians as Mr. Naegele has done, and is now doing.

YOUR OLD BOXES

Don't throw away old boxes. The chances are that you can use them to advantage.

Go to the wall paper dealer and ask him for an old sample book of wall paper. He will probably give you one for the asking. If he has any odds and ends of flowered wall paper that you can have at bargain prices. The paper hanger usually has ends of rolls of paper that he will sell for a song. The odds and ends of your friends may have odds and ends of wall paper left over from the last size of the paper hangers, and they would probably be glad to let you have these bits just to get rid of them.

If by chance you have any hat boxes, these may be covered with gray-flowered paper and the boxes formed into the most charming early Victorian handboxes. If you use a little patience you can make excellent paste from flour and water that can be applied with a brush in pasting the paper on your box. The task is made easier if you cut your paper in the exact shape wanted before beginning to paste. With a pen and compass draw a circle on the cover. Measure the depth of the box and the circumference to get the dimensions of the piece you will need to go around the box.

If you want to make a gift of a box of this sort tie it with a bow of ribbon or put a ribbon bow on top to use as a handle after you have covered it. If you like you can fill it with crushed tissue paper and one or two little sachet bags. A gift of this sort makes a charming trousseau present to the young bride, who will be delighted to have such a box to hold her own things.

All sorts of odd-sized boxes may be covered with wall paper to make pretty gift boxes. If you are so fortunate as to have a given you will need many numbers of these boxes this spring and summer to use to put flowers in to send to friends less fortunate than you. Even if you have no garden you may be able to gather a few flowers—violets or perhaps sprays of fruit blossoms. And a bunch of violets placed in a pretty decorated box lined with pink tissue paper makes a present well worth while.

BEAUTY CHATS

TOE NAILS.

They say the marvelous discoveries in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt, especially that of the tomb of Tutankhamen, will lead to a great vogue for Egyptian fashions. We will have Egyptian furniture, Egyptian hangings, head-dresses, costumes and, above all, sandals instead of shoes—this because of the exquisite sandals worn by the buried king.

Let us hope so, for sandals are such a delight to wear that I cannot think how anyone would return to shoes after having been permitted them. But let us devoutly pray that the new fashion won't go to the length of demanding bare feet—let's hope they'll leave us silk stockings anyway? Few toe-nails can stand public inspection.

We might, just in case, begin to beautify our toes. These are the most neglected part of the body, they say—and I don't doubt it. Begin by soaking the feet for 20 minutes to half an hour in a basin of warm, soapy water. Then take your nail file and clean under each toe-nail and with the cuticle knife, scrape off all the dead skin you can remove from the nail. Clip the jagged ends with your manicure scissors and then trim the nails short.

This trimming differs from the manicure, because each nail should be cut straight across, and the two large toe-nails should be cut inwardly, V-shaped with the point going in, so as to draw the ends from the skin and cure or prevent that painful affliction, ingrowing nails.

Now rub the toe-nails with a little vaseline and wipe this off. Go through this process a week, and you will not know your nails in a few months, they'll be so improved. But meantime you must wear sensible shoes which permit the toes sufficient room to lie straight.

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

CHAPTER XXXVI

"Nothing to Say to Each Other"

Before the long pier-glass in her room, Marcella Field surveyed her self, preparatory to going down to dinner.

She wanted to look very pretty and attractive tonight. She did look pretty. Didn't her mirror reassure her? A mist blue frock, filmy and fragile, curved lovingly about her slender figure. Trails of translucent water-lilies clung about the skirt.

It was the most expensive and becoming frock in Marcella's trunks, and tonight she had donned it for Miles' special benefit.

Leonie's fleeting visit had depressed her. The unspoken confidences—
• • • that talk of Miles' former ardor
• • • the ridiculous untruths about his promising more than once to Leonie Day!

"She can't know that he cares for me," thought Marcella, innocently. "She's just one of those silly girls who think it's clever to invent stories of the offers of marriage they receive. I've met her kind before."

All the same, it was hard to shake the impression off.

"I must talk things over very fully and frankly with Miles," decided Marcella, pivoting in front of the long glass, and patting a spray of lilies into place. "He'll love this gown!"

And he loves me—and no one else! She went down to dinner with a lighter heart. In the hall she found Leonie Day with Miles—an extremely charming Leonie, in a frock as pretty as her own.

The two were talking confidentially, and did not see Marcella.

"Good evening!" she said brightly. Miles did not raise his head. Leonie Day looked up, gave a careless nod, and then resumed her absorbing conversation.

"Young couple over there going ahead like a house on fire, aren't they?" he chuckled, sotto voce. "I'll bet a fever they make a match of it. She did not answer, but a sick feeling swept over her. Had Miles failed to see her? No!

What then?

The rest of the guests drifted down, and soon the party were gathered together round the dinner-table.

Leonie Day was grayest of the gray. With flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes, she seemed, as captivate, not merely one man, but all of them. Saucy remarks slipped from her pert tongue, and everyone laughed heartily at her sallies.

Miles was especially attentive to her. Not once did he allow his glance to rest upon the other girl.

Marcella wondered curiously what had happened. What had she done to deserve this treatment? What had occurred?

Leonie's words came back, and back like little stabbing knives. Was there really truth in them? Had she and Miles been all in all to each other, at one time? Had he gone back to the old love, regarding Marcella more as an interlude, to be forgotten?

Such happiness this morning, and tonight such pain!

Her heart ached intolerably as she stole glances after chance at the girl.

pair opposite. How often Leonie's "hush rang out!" And Miles—Miles was publicly flirting with her!

After dinner, everyone played bridge, except Miles and Leonie, who still seemed to have a great deal to say to one another.

At 10 o'clock, Marcella rose, plucking a headache, and slipped off upstairs. At a curve of the upper landing, she encountered Miles.

He was not going to stop, but something made her suddenly put out her hand, and say, brokenly—

"Can I speak to you a minute? There is just one thing I want to say."

He drew back, unsmiling. A queer look was on the dark, handsome face. "I don't think," he said evenly and very coolly, "that you and I can have anything to say to each other—now or at any other time."

Marcella stared incredulously at her quondam lover. She was white to the very lips.

"You and I—nothing to say to each other?" she repeated, horrified. "What can have happened?"

"This was a nightmare—an incredible nightmare from which surely you would soon awake!"

"Nothing has happened, except that my eyes are opened," said Miles very low. "I've been a fool, that's all."

She put out a trembling hand. The girl was shaking from head to foot, and a pulse in her throat was throbbing madly.

"Miles, what is it? You must tell me. Haven't I—a right to know?" The words came brokenly.

"A right? What right? You are engaged—deeply involved—with someone else."

"But," she stammered, "only this morning we told each other, you and I, about our love. Weren't you in earnest? I believed you."

His lip curled at that.

"And I believed in you. Fool that I was!"

So hurt was he that it seemed to him as though his life faith in this young girl were shattered. Never again could he believe a word she said.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Good for Them.

The grasshopper and roach will do well if you empty your greasy dish water at the roots of the plants each day.

To Keep Fruit.

Fruits should be laid separately on a shelf, as the overripe contaminate the others if placed in a fruit bowl or basket where they touch each other.

Economy in Space.

One housewife bought half a dozen enameled doll's dishes and uses these for leftovers in her refrigerator. They cannot be broken and fit very nicely in the odd corners of the icebox.

Capacity Crowd Hears McKenzie At Concert Here

Tandy McKenzie, the Scotch-Hawaiian tenor, delighted a capacity audience of Atlanta music lovers in the Atlanta Women's club auditorium Tuesday afternoon.

He possesses a voice of tremendous volume, delicate sweetness, with qualities equal to those which have endeared the great McCormick's voice to thousands and, like the Irish tenor, he has perfect enunciation, which makes it doubly pleasing to hear him.

Most noteworthy among his renditions were "Je Crois entendre encore," from the "Pearl Fishers," and "My Dreams," by Tosti.

Mrs. Turman also announced a benefit bridge-party to be given at the residence of Mrs. Sanford Gay, April 20.

The luncheon of the League of Women Voters which was held Tuesday in the Green Tree tea room was one of the most interesting affairs given by that body.

The presence of Miss Eleanor Kaoh, whose husband turned to Atlanta after an absence of almost a year, and who was former president of the league, occasioned an ovation by way of welcome to her.

James A. Holloman spoke to the league members on "Taxation in Georgia," and was heard with interest and enthusiasm.

Mrs. R. L. Turman presided at the meeting and announced that the fullest co-operation in the plans for the registration week to be conducted by the league early in May, on the part of Mayor Sims and Tax Receiver Richardson was announced.

Mrs. Turman also announced a benefit bridge-party to be given at the residence of Mrs. Sanford Gay, April 20.

Parties Honor
Miss Elma Dominick.

Mrs. Walter Gordon Bryant was hostess at a theater party on Tuesday afternoon when she entertained a number of friends at the Foxville theater to meet her attractive guest, Miss Elma Dominick, of Walden, New York.

Mrs. Bryant's guests included Mrs. Magabee, Mrs. Flippin Burge, Mrs. Robert Radford, Mrs. Norwood Griffin, Mrs. Nick Carter, Mrs. Waitts, Mrs. Monfort, and Miss Jimmie Claude Farmer.

Mrs. Bryant will entertain on Thursday at a bridge party at her home on West Peachtree street, complimentary to Miss Dominick.

The guests invited for this occasion are Mrs. Bankston, Mrs. Berien Upshaw, Mrs. McFayden, Mrs. Phil W. C. California; Mrs. Thomas Walsh, Mrs. Franklin Davis, Mrs. Murdoch Egan, Mrs. Stanley Miller, Miss Frances Powell and Miss Martha Boykin.

Woman's Club
Indorses Plan.

The Atlanta Woman's club indorsed the Bleckley plaza plan at the meeting held Monday afternoon, the resolution being introduced by Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, and the motion was carried unanimously.

The proposed plan will cover the railroad tracks between the Forsyth and Union stations, and will create a great plaza extending for many blocks into the heart of the business section.

Confessions of a Debutante BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

Who's Who in the Story.

I ran away from my fiancé, Mrs. Larry, rich and elderly to the arms of Larry, a man who dances well. His wife, Mrs. Larry, is anxious that I should become my friend. I return home. My engagement to Larry is annulled, though I have not learned, is the man who interests me. Jonathan surrenders our wedding because he fears a breach of promise and then suffers a stroke of paralysis caused by fright, right after the ceremony. Father dies. Mother moves into a flat, allowed by Jonathan, who forbids me to re-marry.

Else, my sister, who ran away with an unknown man and is living in poverty. Mother also disowns her. Failure in an attempt to get money from Jonathan for Elsie, I sell my pearl of pearls.

INSTALLMENT NO. 75
"Mrs. Grey!"
Your pearl rope!

I chilled as I echoed the words inaudibly.

My pearl rope was beyond my ever wearing it again. Part of it was in a frock which Elsie was probably wearing at that moment. Part of it was in the gloves which covered her hands. Part of it was in the sparkle in her frank, engaging eyes. My pearl rope!

I put on the black velvet gown. But I had nothing which even looked like the pearl rope for I had never had my jewels duplicated in imitation.

"Have you your pearls on?" Jonathan asked as I appeared in the door of the living room where he was standing.

I tried to pass it off with a tight bit about his having waited for me. But there is no diverting the course of Jonathan's thought.

"Your pearls," he said, "are you wearing them?"

My sudden fright must have shown in my eyes and in the trembling of my hands.

"Where are they?" he asked suddenly.

And then, like a steel knife cutting through the silence of the home—"Where are your pearls, Mrs. Grey?" Mrs. Grey! I, his wife, and then—Mrs. Grey! It struck me foolishly as seemed to me it showed a weakness, a silly attempt to impose upon me, with words, the depth of his dimity.

"I—I sold them!" The words came in half laugh, half shriek.

"Sold them!" the raucous booming of his voice brought me to a stand.

den realization of his strength and his ruthlessness.

"You sold those pearls!" He was shaking his hand wildly in my face. His dress coat had pulled up and the tails were flapping ludicrously.

I stood there, giving not one step—staring at him stonily.

"You sold those pearls? What for?"

"What for I say?" he raged on.

And finally, when I had listened and listened and he had threatened and threatened, I broke the silence.

"I sold them," my voice was "then like some gleaming metal, because I wanted money—cash—cash in these hands of mine!" I held out my hands, long, white, slim, palms upraised, before him.

He stopped and stared at them a space.

"Money!" he screamed at length. "You who come from the family of beggars! Money! I'll find out what you've done with it! I'll find out! And if one penny of it has gone to that sister of yours—I'll stop her for lack of an ugly enough word."

And then we went on, some how, so that dinner and chatter and laughter with the rest—Jonathan and I who had quarreled so bitterly only an hour before!

I remember at one of the elderly women diners said to me: "You've made the most brilliant match of the season, Mrs. Grey!"

I smiled mechanically and thought of the counterfeit bills in my handsome purse.

Saturday, June 30.

I read in this morning's paper of the death of Larry—poor, foolish, sinful, charming, Larry.

I dropped in at their flat this afternoon and found Mrs. Larry, irate-eyed but sort of crushed. I go as one misses even the trouble when it suddenly removes.

Larry hadn't been strong for months but his death was quite unexpected. They had been together a lot of late.

A SCHOOL GIRLS SUCCESS

Everything Depends upon her Health

Mrs. George E. Whitacre Tells of Her Daughter's Breakdown and How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Healthy, Happy, Strong Girl

Every mother possesses information of vital importance to her young daughter, and the responsibility for her future is largely in her hands.

When a school girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she suffers the consequences of wet feet, pain, headaches, fainting spells, loss of sleep and appetite, and is irregular, her mother should have a thought for her physical condition and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has proved a reliable aid to nature for just such conditions in so many cases.

This Mother Writes:

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty."

COTTON CLASSES ARE CONSIDERED

First of Series of Meetings Held in Washington—Atlanta Hearing Set for April 26.

Washington, April 16.—Data presented at a department of agriculture hearing today will be used in the compilation of a second tentative set of regulations governing the classification of cotton classes, as provided by the cotton standards act passed at the last session of congress. Representatives of cotton growers, spinners and shippers from all parts of the country attended the hearing.

Under terms of the act the secretary of agriculture is to interpret the official standards of American cotton by determining the classification of cotton submitted to him for this purpose and by the arbitration of disputes as to classification arising out of commercial spot cotton transactions.

Lloyd S. GOODYEAR DEALERS CONVEENE HERE TODAY

Educational and Inspirational Program Arranged for Annual Event.

Approximately 800 tire and automobile dealers from all parts of Georgia are expected in Atlanta today to attend the annual conference of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Both tire and automobile dealers have attended these conventions in the past, and each year the number has increased. The old custom of holding this annual event in several cities of the state has been changed, and this year only one meeting place has been named. Talks of educational and inspirational nature will be delivered, but no effort will be made to sell tires, the purpose being to bring to both tire and car dealers thoughts that will make operation of their business more satisfactory and profitable.

Branch Manager Starnes especially invited all Atlanta dealers to join the body for luncheon at the Anley at noon as guests of the Goodyear company, and to hear the address of A. R. Kroh, who is well-known to all dealers in Atlanta and the southeast.

C. T. Hutchins, manager of the department of the Goodyear organization, and K. A. Delsky, of the truck tire department, will assist in the educational and inspirational program arranged for the occasion.

LEGION'S BENEFIT OPERA AT CABLE HALL ENJOYABLE

The interpretation of "Romeo et Juliette" Tuesday evening at Cable hall, by a group of four Atlanta artists was one of the distinctly enjoyable events of the pre-opera season.

A splendid audience was present, and their attendance was indeed a tribute not only to the musicians and readers, but to the cause of the American Legion, for whose benefit the series of opera recitals is being given.

Mrs. Earle Sherwood Jackson presented a charming picture in her costume characteristic of the youthful Juliette. Her readings in the present series seem to surpass her former opera presentations, if it were possible for them to be improved upon, and she gave to the concert opera the sympathetic interpretation that is essentially a part of the dramatic story.

Mrs. Jackson was ably assisted by Mrs. Charles Chalmers at the piano. Of the excellent support given by two of Atlanta's well known singers, too much cannot be said. Miss Milna Hecker's clear contralto soprano was admirably adapted to the Juliette music, while Byron Warner's fresh, pure tenor made the role of Romeo all that could be desired.

The next recital in the series for the American Legion, will be "L'Africaine," to be presented at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night, April 17, at Cable hall. H. J. D.

Mrs. Edith W. Peacock Speaks on Psychology In Atlanta on Tuesday

"Psychology as a department of applied science is now taught in the state university of every state in the union," Mrs. Edith W. Peacock stated Tuesday night in an address at the Atlanta Commercial exchange, "and not a cult, a mysticism, or even a religion, though it is in a Supreme Being is a tremendous aid in relieving the faith in one's self, without which a man cannot rise above mediocrity in health, in business and in life."

In answer to a question from the audience, Mrs. Peacock said: "A salesman cannot sell without self-confidence, confidence in himself and confidence in his product. Timidity is due to the inferiority complex, a mental conflict that may be traced by the psychoanalyst to some fear of punishment, shame, dread, or teasing early in childhood. Most failures in business are due to complex where causes have been forgotten."

The lecturer invited the audience to believe in the future of the Atlanta Woman's club to hear her speak at the club Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

New York, April 10.—An early advance on higher Liverpool cables and reports of unsettled weather was followed by sharp reactions in the cotton market here today owing to a renewal of near month liquidation. May contracts were relatively weak, selling off from 30.04 to 29.45 or 33 points net lower, while October delivery from 25.25 to 25.10 or 15 points net lower. May closed at 29.45 and October at 25.10, with the general market closing barely steady 20 to 30 points net lower.

The market opened firm at 25 to 25 1/2 points higher with July selling at 25 1/2 and December at 25 1/2. The relatively firm showing of the English market which private cables attributed to further sales of spot cotton for shipment to the continent and a little more buying by Manchester. There was also some active buying of the early new crop months here on the talk of continued unsettled weather in the belt, but the advance was soon checked by near month liquidation and the market turned to a decline.

It looked as though the failure of the former cables and reiterated complaints of a delay in the new crop start to create a more active or general demand was a disappointment to recent buyers. This combined with the evident tendency of offerings to increase during the 30-cent level probably accounted for a good deal of the scattering liquidation, and as prices eased off during the afternoon, a few stop orders were uncovered. July sold down to 28 1/2 and December to 24 1/2, making net declines of 25 to 33 points on the general list. Offerings then seemed to taper off and there were rallies of 4 to 6 points from the lowest in the late trading.

A New Orleans firm issued a report estimating the acreage at 37,000 acres or 107.8 per cent increase over last year but the figures appeared to attract little attention. Private spot advice was conflicting, some reporting a demand with pressure to sell, while others said the market was better and the basis firm. Port receipts today, 6,132; United States port stocks, 55,545; Exports, 10,425, making 4,114,505 so far this season.

LOSSES FELT IN NEW ORLEANS.
New Orleans, La., April 10.—The cotton market today again went through the performance of making a display of strength in the early trading and then developing decline and loss later on. An unfavorable opinion of the weather map, coupled with a much better Liverpool than day, put prices 7 to 22 points higher around the opening but a little later liquidation set in and was a factor during the remainder of the session. In the late trading prices were 23 to 33 points down to 29.45 and closed at 29.45. October rose to 25.10, fell off to 24.51 and closed at 24.51.

While much of the selling was induced by the liquidation of the May position, especially in New York, not a little of the selling was due to the receipt of messages from the interior, indicating that a great deal more planting was being done than most traders thought possible with rather low temperatures and scattered rains. Brokerage houses received telegrams indicating that seed was going into the ground well up into north Texas.

The early part of the session produced highly favorable spot accounts but less of this sort of news was heard later on. Galveston telegrams stated that Liverpool was bidding in the market after a silence of six weeks while Augusta wired that it was getting inquiries from both Liverpool and Bremen.

News, Views And Reviews

Cotton Letter.
New York, April 10.—Outside interest was slight, with the market mostly in the hands of professionals, who made some impression on prices, covering spot loss orders. Toward the close the action was reversed, in liquidation from steel and a sharp advance recorded at the expense of a large short interest. The reaction was taken advantage of by shrewd traders to pick up cheap shorts and we believe that if that policy is followed there are many turns to be made before the market takes a definite trend. Cotton Letter.
New York, April 10.—Professional sentiment against the market, while the trade will doubtless come in on the moderate price when in sight, not because of the situation but because of the fact that one must expect to wait some time before the market will develop and realize a profit on the subject of cotton. This will probably result in some development in connection with the spot demand and the general market may feel a trifle more active than it is at present. The degree of cotton's recovery from its present position has been a subject of much discussion and there is no sign as yet of any important movement to fill it up again, but neither for the fact that liquidation of speculative holdings has been so complete that the market may feel a trifle more active than it is at present. COTTON LETTER.
New York, April 10.—The market is left in a state of uncertainty, with a trading tendency has developed which is illustrated by the fluctuations. Keith's Vaudeville—(At the Lyric). Tony Hunting and Corinne Frances, who hold headline honors at the Lyric, are considered two of the most clever entertainers in the business today. Their offering this season is a one-act playlet called, "The Photo Graffiti."
Loew's Vaudeville—(At Loew's Grand). "Stolen Sweets" and the other Loew acts playing at Loew's Grand theater for the first half of the week will terminate their Atlanta engagement with today and tonight's performances. Grainger and Lawlor are dancers without superiors. Their conceptions of modern dances have scored heavily with audiences at Loew's especially in this time of their toe dances in which both are excellent.
"Stolen Sweets" is a miniature musical comedy in which eight people, five being pretty girls, are seen and heard in late songs, graceful dances and a liberal portion of comedy.
It has the whole town on the jump!

Loew's Vaudeville—(At Loew's Grand). "Stolen Sweets" and the other Loew acts playing at Loew's Grand theater for the first half of the week will terminate their Atlanta engagement with today and tonight's performances. Grainger and Lawlor are dancers without superiors. Their conceptions of modern dances have scored heavily with audiences at Loew's especially in this time of their toe dances in which both are excellent.
"Stolen Sweets" is a miniature musical comedy in which eight people, five being pretty girls, are seen and heard in late songs, graceful dances and a liberal portion of comedy.
It has the whole town on the jump!

ANSLEY PARK OWNER MUST SELL
On one of the most desirable streets in Ansley Park and one just newly paved we offer a most comfortable house on a big corner lot.
House has three bedrooms and bath on the second floor, and two bedrooms and bath on first floor. Has steam heat, garage, two servants' rooms.
House is in good condition and could be readily made into a duplex.
The owner has left Atlanta and has instructed us to sell at once and has put a price of $14,500.
This house is worth more than this and with the rapidly increasing cost of building material it is, in our opinion, a "pick up."

Former Convicts To Testify Today
In Death Probe
Grand Jury Investigating Case of Boy Who Died in Camp in Florida.
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Macon, Fla., April 10.—Former convicts who claimed to have been flogged, and former guards in the camp where the floggings took place, will testify here tomorrow before the Madison county grand jury investigating into the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth who died while serving a prison sentence in this state last year.
G. Grimson, state's attorney of North Dakota, and Judge W. J. Kneass of that state, who are here to assist in the prosecution, conferred here tonight with Florida authorities in regard to the presentation of the case to the grand jury.
State's Contention.
The state, it is understood, will contend that Tabert was a victim of a whipping administered at the camp of the Putnam Lumber company at Clara, Fla., and will ask for the indictment of Walter Higginbotham, convict camp boss, who is held on a charge of murder in connection with the case. Higginbotham was brought here today from Dixie county, where the alleged crime is said to have been committed.
Tabert died after he had been convicted of beating his way on a train. He was sentenced to three months and later leased to the lumber company to work out the time. Officials of that concern claim that death resulted from a complication of diseases. The state, it is said, will introduce witnesses in an effort to show that death was due to a severe whipping administered by Higginbotham while Tabert was sick and too weak to work.
The representatives of North Dakota, it is said, will submit evidence to the grand jury tending to show Sheriff J. R. Jones, of Leon county, and other county officials had entered into collusion with railroad detectives to arrest men riding through that county on freight trains, have them sentenced by the court and then leased to the lumber camp.
Claims Evidence.
Attorney Grimson asserts that he has evidence to prove that Sheriff Jones had arranged with the Putnam Lumber company for the payment of $20 "bribe money" for all able-bodied men that he could pick up and deliver to the lumber camp in the swamps for 30 days.
Higginbotham denies the charge against him, and says he is not vouching for the outcome of the investigation. He did not deny applying the lash to Tabert or other convicts, but he declared that the punishment inflicted upon the North Dakota boy was not and not sufficient to have caused death.
A former convict named Johnson, who was in the camp with Tabert, is expected to appear before the grand jury. He is said to be one of the state's principal witnesses. It is said that he prepared Tabert's body for burial.
